NEW WAR DEBT SHUFFLE IS PROPOSED

SHIP FEARED LOST DOCKS AT DETROIT

German Oil Tanker, Overdue, Reaches Port and Proceeds to Montreal

Lake Erie Is Lashed By Gale

Several Vessels Shelter Behind Long Point; Lighthouse Telephone Repaired

Detroit, Nov. 14.—The Sun Service Oil Company reported the German tanker Grete Glad had arrived here at 4 a.m. to-day, and cleared a few hours later, presumably for Montreal.

The tanker was at first feared in trouble by Port Colborne, Ontario, officials who said she had been unreported for twenty-four hours after clearing the Welland Canal. She was en route to Detroit with a cargo of oil and gasoline.

Port Rowan, Ont., Nov. 14.—Several vessels to-day were lying in shelter behind Long Point while a howling and churning Lake Erie to a fury. A light-ship, James Brown, said he had not been able to identify the vessels. A heavy wind and sweeping snowstorm had practically ruined the point's telephone service during the night, and the lighthousekeeper, working under great difficulties, repaired the line from Port Rowan to his light-house early to-day.

EIGHTEEN DIE AS WALL FALLS

Associated Press
Warsaw, Poland, Nov. 14.—In the most tragic building catastrophe on record in Warsaw, eighteen persons were killed and about a score were injured yesterday when a wall of the Haderbush and Schiele Brewery collapsed and a huge quantity of barley buried a small adjoining wooden house. It being Sunday, all thirty-one tenants of the house were asleep. When victims were extricated it was found only two had been killed by the masonry and sixteen suffocated by the barley.

Bennett's Socialism Stand Is Criticized

Prof. F. J. Scott of McGill University Scores Premier For Lack of Differentiation Between Socialism and Communism

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—"If the Prime Minister does not know the difference between Socialism and Communism, it is time he found out the difference from any university undergraduate."

This was an observation made in a public address here yesterday evening by Professor F. J. Scott, professor of constitutional law in McGill University.

As a legal proposition Socialism was not criminal, he added. There was no law against undermining legal institutions provided legal means were used.

"Mr. Bennett asked the Canadian people to put an iron heel on Communism," continued Prof. Scott. "Things are coming to a pretty pass when the Prime Minister of this country incites the people to ruthlessness. Statements of that sort should not go unchallenged. Freedom is a habit, and if we do not practice it, it will cease to exist."

SECTION 95 CONDEMNED
The McGill professor denounced section ninety-eight of the Criminal Code, which defines "unlawful assembly." The section not only infringed on the British tradition of free speech, he said, but also violated the fundamental principle of British justice that a man was innocent until proved guilty.

To Rebuild on Gold Standard

Basel, Switzerland, Nov. 14.—Governors of Europe's central banks who met to-day at the Bank for International Settlements expressed the unanimous opinion the gold standard was the only basis on which the world economic situation could be bettered.

The bankers discussed financial problems to come up at the World Economic Conference, which will probably be held next year.

GUARANTEES GIVEN BANKS

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—The federal government made guarantees to the banks to permit the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Pools to continue hedging operations, Premier Bennett stated in the Commons to-day. It hedging had been discontinued, the Canadian crop could not be marketed, he said.

COLD WAVE MAY STRIKE

Yukon is Sending Its Cold Breath Southward; Low Pressure Area Blocks It

Present Wet Weather May Continue; Rainfall for Month Reaches Average

As long as the area of low barometric pressure, hovering off the coast remains where it is, Victoria will escape the intense cold wave sweeping southward through the province. But if the pressure area should swing south, bringing north winds to the city, the capital might experience exceptionally cold weather, F. Napier Denison, of the Gonzales Hill observatory stated to-day. Indications, he said, pointed to a continuance of the prevailing weather with prospects of rain which may turn to sleet. AMY JOHNSON ON LONG HOP

Attempts England-Capetown Solo Flight in Several Stages

Lympne, Eng., Nov. 14.—Amy Johnson, Great Britain's leading woman flier and in private life Mrs. J. A. Mollison, took off to-day for a long flight to South Africa in an attempt to beat her husband's record of four days, seventeen hours and nineteen minutes for the same trip.

Mrs. Mollison was flying in her new Puss Moth named "Desert Dove." The plane is silver colored and bears bright green registration marks.

Equipped with special fuel tanks, the ship is estimated to have a flying range of about 2,000 miles.

The aviator wore the badge of St. Christopher, the patron saint of travel, worn by her husband on his transatlantic flight from Dublin.

Mrs. Mollison hoped to reach Oran, Algeria, this afternoon, planning to fly from there to Colomb Bechar, Saharan, Paola Regga, Gao, Niamey, Duala, Paola de Loanda and Walvis Bay. She expected to make a 1,500-mile dash, she said, during the night.

Amy spent six weeks in planning the flight. She financed it herself, the enterprise costing about $2,000.

PARENTS SEE SON KILLED

Nine-year-old Boy Victim of Accident on Douglas St.

Inquest To-morrow Over Body of Ronald Mobery, One of Nine Children

Efforts to save the life of nine-year-old Ronald Mobery, who was injured in a traffic accident Saturday evening were unsuccessful and he died at 9 o'clock yesterday morning in the Jubilee Hospital.

An inquest will be held to-morrow morning at McCall Brothers Funeral Home.

The boy sustained a fractured skull when knocked down by a car driven by Leonard Hiberson, 1513 Amphion Street, at the corner of Douglas and Johnson Streets at 6:10 o'clock Saturday evening.

According to the police report the boy was walking with his parents south on Douglas Street and as they approached Johnson Street the boy ran ahead. The parents saw the accident happen. The car was crossing the intersection east on Johnson Street. It was raining at the time.

An operation on the lad was performed by Dr. F. M. Bryant and Dr. E. L. McInnes but the injuries to his head were too severe and he expired the next morning.

Coroner E. C. Hart, after viewing the body, ordered an inquest.

The boy, whose full name was Ronald Cyril Mobery, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Mobery. There are six other boys and two girls in the family. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stevens of this city were the lad's grandparents and another grandmother, Mrs. Mobery, is in England.

Ronald attended Quindra Street School.

BIG FIRM IN RECEIVERSHIP

Chicago Judge Names Receiver for $20,000,000 Western Power Co.

Associated Press
Chicago, Nov. 14.—Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to-day announced the appointment of an equity receiver for the Western Power, Light and Heat Company, a $20,000,000 holding corporation operating nineteen public utilities in 275 middle western communities.

The court had appointed Robert L. Tudor as receiver last Friday, but the action was suppressed until to-day.

The various utility companies embraced by the corporation served 650,000 people, the activities including sale of gas, light and power, water, telephone service, salt, coal and wood.

A receivership was asked by a group of creditors holding notes totaling $150,000. J. A. Kennedy, president, consented to the receivership as a means to prevent lawsuits which might jeopardize assets. He stated the normal income of the company was $3,500,000 annually.

The petition cited the company defaulted August 1 on a bond issue of $465,802 and that $2,999,000 would fall due next February and $1,060,000 in December, 1932.

The court had suppressed the action here pending the anticipated arrival of ancillary receivers in the federal court at Kansas City to-day.

U.S. Government Is Expected to Agree to Extension of Debt Holiday Past December 15 Payment Date; Request Causes President Hoover to Set Precedent by Inviting President-elect Roosevelt to Confer With Him at White House

Associated Press

Washington, Nov. 14.—Great Britain and France, each a $4,000,000,000 debtor of the United States, to-day sought relief from further payments pending an international conference on world debt problems.

Publication of their formal requests, made to a government already on record against further reduction or cancellation, coincided with a telegram from President Hoover to President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, inviting his successor to a conference on the subject—an action without exact precedent in all United States presidential history.

It brought also suggestions of immediate congressional consideration, Senator Walsh of Montana, Democrat, said that if "it becomes necessary to dispose of the matter at once a special session of Congress should be called."

Chairman Collier of the House of Representatives said he would oppose any effort to cancel the European war debts and that "if the debtor nations can't pay, let them owe us."

Representative Ragon, Democrat, Arkansas, who drafted the declaration against further reductions which Congress attached to the Hoover one-year moratorium on intergovernmental debts, recommended an immediate meeting of the House ways and means committee to consider the question.

Views sought
This previous congressional declaration was stressed by President Hoover in his telegram to Mr. Roosevelt, dispatched from the train on which he is speeding back to the White House.

"If there is to be any change in the attitude of Congress it will be greatly affected by the views of those members who recognize you as their leader," the Chief Executive said. "I am loathe to proceed with recommendations to Congress until I can have an opportunity to confer with you personally."

Friends expected Mr. Roosevelt to accept the invitation.

The British and French notes, both asking suspension of December 15 payments of $95,000,000 and $19,361,438, respectively, were considered only the first of similar requests to be made by all war debtors of the United States for a revision of obligations. The December payments are the first due since expiration of the moratorium.

SMALL NATIONS
In September, Estonia, Latvia and Poland took advantage of a ninety-day notification clause in the debt funding agreements and told the United States government principal payments aggregating over $2,000,000 would not be made in December. Last week Hungary served notice she could not meet her December instalment, and Greece failed to make a payment then due.

BORAH URGES ARMS CUTS

U.S. Senator Says Policies Are Destroying Civilization

Would Consider Debt Reduction by United States Only if Europe Disarms

Washington, Nov. 14.—The notes from Great Britain and France on war debts brought a statement from Senator William E. Borah that the "policies which have made postponement necessary will destroy civilization if they are continued."

The Republican chairman of the Senate foreign affairs committee, who has advocated a reduction of armaments by European countries, said that "proposals for postponement and moratoriums should be accompanied by a programme which will give some assurance things will be different from this time on."

Mr. Borah's statement was a reaffirmation of the position he announced in the last session of Congress, when the debt question was brought to the fore. At that time the Idaho senator said he would be willing to have the United States consider reduction or cancellation of the war debts only if positive assurance could be given the money thus saved the foreign nations would not be used by them to build up bigger armies and navies.

He then declared the only way this assurance could be given would be for the debtor nations to sign a treaty reducing by international agreement world armaments to a scale strictly for police purposes.

DEBT DELAY AIDING TRADE

British Believe Suspension of Payments to U.S. Benefits Whole World

London, Nov. 14.—The British government proceeded on the assumption that announcement of negotiations for final settlement of the war debt would be made to the United States until the negotiations are concluded.

The proposal for suspension of payments due on December 15, amounting to $95,550,000, was made public in Washington yesterday evening, was described by government officials as a business-like move in the interests of the whole world.

The officials believed, they said, that their announcement would have the salutary effect of stabilizing world confidence and promoting recovery of world trade.

S. J. Hungerford Says Policy of Railway Will Be Decided By Legislation

Makes His First Visit Since Assuming Post Finds Note of Courageous Optimism in Course of Inspectional Tour

While the government has under consideration the findings of the Duff commission leading to the solution of the complex railroad problem, Samuel J. Hungerford, acting president of the Canadian National Railways, is swinging around the system to post himself on the operation of the line.

On his first visit to the Coast since he succeeded Sir Henry Thornton as directing head of the C.N.R., Mr. Hungerford reached the city Sunday morning from Montreal via Prince Rupert and Vancouver. He will leave again to-night, and after two days in Vancouver inspecting the terminals there, he will return to Montreal, where important conferences call for his presence by the latter part of the month.

On his arrival here Mr. Hungerford was accompanied by the son, Stewart J. Hungerford, J. Fyvie-Smith, Vancouver, a member of the board of directors of the C.N.R., B. T. Chappell, general superintendent at Vancouver; Frank Pratt, general manager of C.N.R. hotels and sleeping and dining car services; and M. A. Metcalf, his secretary, and Walter Thompson, director of publicity.

A. E. Warren, vice-president, western region, and Howard A. Dittie, chief engineer, western region, who accompanied the acting president from Winnipeg to Vancouver, reached here by a later boat.

INFORMATIVE MISSION
"I am out here for the purpose of making an inspection of the whole system," said Mr. Hungerford when interviewed following his arrival at the Empress Hotel. "I want to get information. I want to learn at first hand just what the situation is."

Primarily, Mr. Hungerford's interest is centred in the railway, but he is also rising up general conditions as one is closely related to the other. He added that he desired to re-establish contacts with the officers and men of the company, and to see for himself how things were working out under the new scheme of things.

The great need of the C.N.R. is more business, its equipment being of a particularly high standard of efficiency. A 50 per cent increase in the present volume would mean a great deal in the net results, while it is obvious that much depends upon an improvement in business conditions.

The difficulties being faced by Canadian railways were not confined solely to this country, he said, referring to the question experienced by the railways of the United States and other countries in these times of stress.

MORE OLDER SCHOOL PUPILS

Lack of Employment is Keeping Young Canadians at Lessons Longer

Cost of 32,637 Educational Institutes in Canada Last Year $178,701,507

More evidence of the economic reaction among pupils than teachers is noted in the annual survey of Education in Canada for 1931; which has recently been completed and which is summarized by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The summary notes there are exceptionally large increases in the number of older pupils, indicating that lack of employment kept them in school, but the school year ending in 1931 was too early to reflect the more recent general reductions in teachers' salaries.

There was an increase of 2.1 per cent over the previous year in school age, and of 8.1 per cent in the cost of education, the latter percentage increase being greater, largely on account of the higher proportion of enrolment increase being in the more advanced and more costly institutions.

LONGER SCHOOL LIFE
This edition of the survey, in noting the records of the census of 1931 on school attendance, shows a ten-year increase of about 20 per cent in the number of children of school age, as compared with the much greater increase of 35.3 per cent in the number at school. This means that the school life is longer.

Honey Balls and Chocolates Run Close As Rivals

But Statistic Bureau Figures Flappers Get the $13,968,632 Worth of Chocolates While Lasses in Pinafiores Suck $9,080,205 Worth of Sugar Candy.

When the swain visits the girl of his dreams, wooing bent, does he go equipped with a box of chocolates or a bag of confectionery? Which does the Canadian maid prefer? Chocolates?

A report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics on the biscuit, confectionery, cocoa and chocolate industries in 1931, makes it appear that the answer is six of one and half a dozen of the other. Perhaps it is chocolate from Sierra Leone for the maid and sugar from the Fiji Islands for the youngster less gifted in keeping tell-tale marks from ruby lips.

Last year there were produced in Canada 51,277,358 pounds of chocolate confectionery and 51,237,187 pounds of sugar confectionery. But the chocolate article, evidently more expensive to produce, was valued at $13,968,632 and the sugar variety $9,080,205. So probably, on the basis of cost, the queen of the parade daintily disposes of the chocolate while the little lass in pinafore sucks the "honey ball" bulging her cheek.

This is the news and striking way the Bureau of Statistics presents its interesting fact in its daily bulletin to-day.

FARMERS PAY THEIR BILLS WITH PRODUCE

Agrarians of Peace River District Give Chickens, Pigs, Potatoes and Turnips for Goods and Services

Canadian Press
Calgary, Nov. 14.—The pinch of hard times is not felt greatly in the northern Alberta communities, and money is getting to be a thing of the past.

This was what Major G. H. Schoof, the empire's oldest active police officer, said when he arrived in Calgary en route from the Peace River country to his winter home. Close to the four-score mark in years, the tall, broad-shouldered policeman was heading for Claresholm, Alta., to prepare for his winter activities of riding the Livingstone range—scene of a short-lived gold rush two years ago.

"We use very little money in the Peace River now," said Major Schoof. "We pay our editors, blacksmiths, ministers, lawyers and doctors with pigs, chickens, potatoes, turnips and an occasional turkey. We hardly know what a ten-dollar bill looks like. We have food in abundance. Why should we worry?"

Not all the Peace River residents have quite the optimistic viewpoint of Major Schoof, who polices the territory all summer and then travels to the southern foothills in the winter or tours and lectures on the Far North to United States audiences. Many of the northerners dislike being offered twenty-five cents a bushel for their wheat, but none of them is very pessimistic.

Major Schoof, in the west since 1882, maintains three homes—at Corpus Christi, Texas, Peace River and Claresholm in Alberta—because of his varied activities.

Orphan Tot On Long Trip Alone

Six-year-old Lad on Way to Manila Where Wealthy Business Man Will Adopt Him.

Probably the most excited passenger on board the outbound liner President Taft, when she sailed from here for the Orient Saturday evening was six-year-old Harold Hunt, orphan boy from the Children's Farm Home at Corvallis, Oregon. He is en route to be adopted by a wealthy business man of the Philippine Islands.

Officers, from Capt. M. M. Jensen down, and interested passengers, promise to make the long trans-Pacific voyage enjoyable for the little lad who is making the trip alone.

Harold's father and mother died at Salem, Oregon, before he was old enough to remember much about them. Friends put him in the Farm Home at Corvallis and he was happy there for several years.

Last year Harry Werner, prominent business man of Manila, was passing through Oregon and made a visit to the Farm Home. He had thought of adopting a child, but had not quite made up his mind. As soon as he saw the bright six-year-old boy he decided to offer a home for him in Manila.

Mr. Werner had to return to Manila immediately, however, and there was not time to have Harold outfitted and his papers ready to accompany his adopted father.

Stewardess Maude McGinn of the President Taft is officially in charge of Harold, and on the way from Seattle to Victoria on Saturday the little lad and his guardian for the Pacific voyage became fast friends.

DEBTS INFLUENCE WORLD CONFERENCE

Manchester, Eng., Nov. 14.—The Manchester Guardian said in an editorial to-day that "until re-settlement of political payments is in sight there will be no revival of confidence and little prospect of success for the World Economic Conference."

The paper said the co-operation of the United States was the first step for a common effort, which, if favored, received, would brighten the world outlook immensely.

Campaign Against Ratification of St. Lawrence Project Opened by U.S. Border City

Canadian Press and Associated Press
Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 14.—Charging the St. Lawrence shipway project was a blow at Wall Atlantic seaboard and Gulf ports of the United States, Buffalo to-day fired the first shot in what is expected to be a determined fight to prevent ratification of the treaty with Canada.

The attack was made through the Chamber of Commerce, which also struck at the St. Lawrence power project, saying there was "no present market for the enormous amount of horsepower proposed to be developed," and no present demand for it in the vicinity.

CITIZENS IN FIGHT
The Buffalo Chamber of Commerce drafted more than a score of the city's leading citizens to direct the fight. Buffalo, now the leading inland port, would see much commerce going past its door through the Welland Canal and down the St. Lawrence if the shipway were built, in the opinion of many transportation experts.

As the western terminus of the so-called "All-American route" via the Barge Canal in New York State and down the Hudson River to the coast, Buffalo has constituted itself the guardian of the commerce which annually flows through this artery, and over the United States railroads leading east. In normal times its lake and canal commerce totals between $600,000,000 and $800,000,000 a year.

Much of this business, it is believed, would be lost if the shipway were completed.

Tries To Lift Wheat Raising Restriction

Viscount Elibank Tells British House of Lords Canadian Direct Consignment For Preference is Mistaken Move

Canadian Press
 London, Nov. 14.—A last-minute effort to modify the government's ruling that only wheat consigned on through shipment from Canada to the United Kingdom would obtain the six-cents-a-bushel preference was made in House of Lords today by Viscount Elibank.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—The opinions expressed by Winnipeg grain dealers that they did not contemplate any great difficulties in routing their grain to the United Kingdom to conform with the requirements of regulation 12 of the British customs law and therefore obtain the six-cents-a-bushel preference was the subject of much discussion here today. Government circles which passed on these opinions today explained this did not mean any widening or other interpretation of the regulation as previously explained in the Commons.

It was made clear the regulation did not allow Canadian wheat to be consigned to the United States and then re-exported to the United Kingdom. The view was expressed that any wheat going through the United States which exporters found clashed with this provision could be sent to fill continental European orders.

NO RELAXATION
 When shown a Winnipeg dispatch, R. B. Hanson, Conservative M.P. for York-Sudbury, N.B., said he noted the grain dealers in Winnipeg did not anticipate any difficulty in shipments of Canadian wheat through United States ports to the United Kingdom obtaining the six-cent preference.

If this meeting of the government relaxation of the regulation by the United Kingdom authorities there was nothing to warrant such a viewpoint. Mr. Hanson explained he had interviewed members of the government regarding the matter this morning and had obtained an authoritative statement that the interpretation placed on the United Kingdom regulation in the House of Commons on Thursday last was still adhered to and that re-shipment of shipments in a foreign country would automatically forfeit the preference.

STATEMENT AWAITED
 Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—Prominent grain and shipping men of the prairies today were non-committal on the effect of British customs regulations requiring wheat to be shipped to the United Kingdom.

German Charge French Would Charge British Would Charge Stalin

Izvestia, Moscow Paper, Charges British Intelligence Service Leading Plot Against Soviet

Moscow, Nov. 14.—Izvestia, organ of the Central Executive Committee of the Soviet Republic, yesterday published accusations that the British intelligence service planned to "fake" a "proof" that Joseph Stalin directed the London "hunger march" and was "organizing a civil war in India."

The newspaper asserted the recent breaking by the Anglo-Soviet trade agreement by the British Government "opened all floodgates for anti-Soviet propaganda" and that British leaders hoped to dislodge the United States government from taking action to improve its relations with Soviet Russia.

The paper said "a fact which we shall not deny is that Stalin is not only the leader of the Soviet people but also the leader of the world proletariat and that scores of millions of workers and peasants throughout the world are following his lead."

He was native of Lugton, Ayrshire, Scotland, and for some years served as medical doctor for the British Sugar Company in Peru, coming to Victoria from South America. From here he went to McBride, B.C., on the line of the Canadian National Railways, where he served as community and railway doctor for several years. He was formerly a medical missionary in India, Africa and South America. It was while engaged in this work that he met his wife.

Dr. Sandilands' when he met his death, was practicing medicine at Seahurst, Lake Burien, twelve miles distant from Seattle.

ON WAY TO CHURCH
 At the time of the tragedy the Sandilands family was on the way to the First Presbyterian Church in Seattle, of which church they were members.

Mr. Sandilands, twenty-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Sandilands, who was driving when the car was struck by the Prentice auto, is not believed to be seriously hurt, although he sustained cuts and bruises.

He told the Seattle police that the Prentice car sped toward him as he was proceeding north on 34th Avenue. He said he averted sharply and drove over the curb in a desperate effort to avoid collision but claimed the Prentice car also veered in the same direction causing the two machines to crash.

Waldo Thompson of Seattle, who was riding in the Prentice car, was treated in hospital for broken ribs and cuts. Prentice received cuts about the face and head and was given treatment in hospital.

Several months ago the Sandilands car was almost wrecked in a similar accident near Woodland Park, according to Dr. and Mrs. Sandilands, a friend of Robert Sandilands, who was driving the car over the curb, Dolgner told the Seattle police.

CUBAN TOWN GIANT PIRE
 By J. P. McKnight, Associated Press Staff Correspondent
 Camaguey, Cuba, Nov. 14.—The town of Santa Cruz del Sur became a gigantic funeral pyre today on the order of military authorities.

The destruction by wind and water that also took the lives of probably 2,500 Cubans last week, was thus completed for the sake of sanitation.

This action made it probable the exact number of lives taken by the hurricane of last Wednesday will never be known.

Meanwhile President Gerardo Machado refused to allow the military and governmental agencies sped up the task of relief and rehabilitation.

Dr. Octavio Zubizarreta, Minister of the Interior, who estimated the dead at 2,500, traversed much of the 100-mile wide path of the hurricane during the night with military authorities.

HEAVIEST TWO WEEKS' DOWNPOUR IN SEATTLE FOR TWENTY-SIX YEARS

Seattle, Nov. 14.—Heavy rains and melting snow from the Cascades drove rivers and creeks stopping over banks into fields and pastures, flooded highways, washed out two bridges, and caused one death in the state of Washington during the week-end.

Robert Beck Jr., nineteen, of Auburn, was drowned when the Evans Creek bridge near Puyallup, Pierce County, collapsed yesterday as he drove his loaded wood truck over it. The body was recovered.

Emergency work crews battled to stop flood waters that broke through dikes on the Green River near Kent in the White River Valley.

The Green, Snoqualmie, Skagit and Stillaguamish Rivers all were reported over their banks.

The high line road to Tacoma, which was the only highway between the city and Seattle which was not covered in places with water. The countryside around North Bend and Snoqualmie, on the west side of the Snoqualmie Pass was under a foot of water, and families have been driven out of the first floor of their houses.

Wrecking cars took automobiles through the flooded areas. Near the town of Wenatchee was washed out yesterday.

Grays Harbor reported three and a half inches of rain in the past twenty-four hours. Two small cedar rafters broke loose near Kelso.

HEAVIEST SINCE 1906
 Not since 1908 have such heavy rains fallen in Seattle as during the first two weeks of November, the weather bureau said.

Skagit and Snohomish counties, particularly with cold temperatures coming flood conditions were expected to abate.

DEBT DELAY TRADING TRADE
 While admitting Great Britain would keep in close touch with other nations owing money to the United States, the British government today said it was not prepared to discuss the question of a moratorium on foreign debt until the end of the year.

It was said the timing of the British note had been guided entirely by the United States political situation and that President Hoover's return to Washington had not been awaited because of the short time before the next payment was due and Congress will meet.

LOOK FOR ACCEPTANCE
 Government quarters had but few doubts the British proposals would be accepted, and recalled the action of the League of Nations in arranging to slash German reparations through the Lausanne conference. They stressed that the Lausanne decision bonding reparations at about $714,000,000, had opened the way for final settlement in an atmosphere of "cool detachment."

It was not expected a formal debt conference would be called in Washington, but that the United States would deal with each creditor country separately.

The official British view also held that any negotiations on debts would not affect the forthcoming World Economic Conference also projected in the Lausanne agreement to which the United States has been invited.

The government stressed the world standpoint in matters of debt, taking the view that the pressure of economic relief and recovery were being felt and should be encouraged.

It was noted the world trade was down half its 1929 volume and that 25,000,000 were unemployed throughout the world. In the face of that situation it was contended the British move for final settlement of the war debts was an effort to further the well-being of the world as a whole.

NEW WAR DEBT SHUFFLE PROPOSED

INTEREST AND PRINCIPAL
 All of France's December payment is interest which, under the funding agreement, is not post-ponable. Great Britain's instalment includes $30,000,000 of principal.

Britain's communication was a note signed by her Ambassador, Sir Roland Lindsay, Ambassador Claude presented for the French Government an unsigned memorandum of like tenor. Ambassador Lindsay's note said in part:

"The hopes which were early raised by the President's initiative (moratorium) have unfortunately not been realized. It is a day many thoughtful men throughout the world are convinced that if the depression is to be overcome, further remedial measures must be sought."

Both communications stressed the Lausanne Conference of last July at which the Allied powers agreed to suspend repayments to $715,000,000, on condition that the French Government would see its way to enter into an exchange of views at the earliest possible moment.

Reparations total, first capitalized at $44,000,000, was scaled down to $31,500,000,000 in 1929 further reduced by the Dawes Plan and cut by the Young Plan to between $6,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000.

All foreign debts to the United States aggregate $11,000,000,000. Total reparations due from Germany to the United States as of December 15, 1932, are $12,000,000,000. Nations from whom no communication of notice has been received include Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Finland and Italy.

Britain's debt was funded at $4,600,000,000 and France's at $4,025,000,000. MAJOR PROBLEM
 In his telegram from his special train, inviting President-elect Roosevelt to confer with him at the White House, President Hoover said:

"Our government is now confronted with a world problem of major importance to this nation. It is the problem of the depression, and the problem of the depression is the problem of the world."

Because of these questions, disarmament and other problems affecting the world economic situation, Mr. Hoover said he felt "an intense desire to see the world in the public interest."

"Time is of great importance in these questions," he added, "and I understand that you are planning to come through Washington some time during the latter part of next week. I hope you will find it convenient to stop long enough for me to advise with you."

"I should, of course, be only too glad to have you bring into this conference all of the Democratic congressional leaders and other advisers you may wish."

OPPOSES CANCELLATION
 The Chief Executive reviewed to Mr. Roosevelt the war debt question as he had seen it develop during his administration, and reiterated his position as opposed to "cancellation in any form."

"We should be receptive," he said, "to proposals from our debtors of tangible compensation in the form of direct payment in expansion of markets for the products of our labor and our farms, and I have stated further that substantial reduction of world armaments which will relieve our own and world burdens and dangers has a bearing on this question."

"If negotiations are to be undertaken as requested by the government, protracted and detailed discussions would be necessary which could not be concluded during any administration. Any negotiation of this question on the basis of the requests of these governments is limited by the resolution of Congress."

"And if there is to be any change greatly affected by the views of those in the attitude of Congress it will be members who recognize you as their leader, and who will properly desire your counsel and advice."

Mr. Hoover told Mr. Roosevelt he was prepared to deal with the debt question as far as his power would permit, but added that "it must be a common wish to deal with this question in a constructive fashion for the common good of the country."

Up Army Plans Cologne Paper Says Troops Prepared To Move Within Week

Military Experts Quoted as Declaring That "Before Gates of Germany Stands Best Equipped Army in the World"

By Louis F. Lochner, Associated Press Staff Correspondent
 Cologne, Germany, Nov. 14.—In an exhaustive discussion of French military organization and equipment, to be presented in a special issue tomorrow, The Koelnische Illustrierte Zeitung, a widely-read weekly circulated internationally and throughout Germany, reaches the conclusion that "before the gates of Germany there stands the best-equipped army in the world, ready to march."

Statistics, graphs and maps are set forth in the issue, along with photographs, bannered quotations from the sayings of French statesmen, and scientific analyses by German military experts.

The purpose is to prove to German readers that Jules Cambon, eminent French diplomat, correctly interpreted the French people in saying that "in the army lies the soul of France."

SAY PROOF POSSIBLE
 The publishers of the weekly—the English equivalent of the title is The Cologne Illustrated Newspaper—assert that the goal of establishing a program never has been printed. Every declaration, they say, can be proved.

Outstanding among the statements are these:
 1.—That within a week, and without special parliamentary authorization, France could put into action twenty-five infantry, five cavalry and four air divisions.

2.—That the French military budget does not show what the nation is spending on armaments—"France is the world's champion when it comes to camouflaging her military expenditures."

3.—That the French fleet "has made tremendous methodical progress," thanks to a long-term plan, begun in 1913, and which will be completed in 1935.

4.—That the French air fleet has a radius of activity extending far beyond Germany, the Channel and England, and beyond the Italian plains of the Po, including Turin and Milan.

5.—That French army manoeuvres in recent years "have evinced a clearly aggressive tendency."

6.—That for more than a century French policy has not swerved from the goal of establishing a military hegemony over Europe, and that the "French system of alliances rests on Europe like a nightmare."

7.—That the French military system combines professional troops enlisted for long-term service with a short-term draft army resting on the universal obligation of all males to serve, written by thirty-one French army officers entitled, "Ready to March Within Six Days Without Mobilization." The last three annual classes of reserves, known as the "three-year classes," without asking Parliament or declaring mobilization. He describes the process thus:

"Within a few hours eight highly-equipped divisions of infantry, five of cavalry and four of the air force could be ready for action. Within three or four days eighteen more infantry divisions could enter the fray."

ALBERTA SCHEME STRONGLY OPPOSED
 Canadian Press
 Calgary, Nov. 14.—Petitions opposing the Alberta government's enlarged municipality scheme have been signed by thirty-one local improvement districts in the province. Thirty more petitions are reported in circulation and all will be placed before Premier Brownlee shortly.

Supporters claim the petitions have been signed by nearly 100 per cent of local improvement district residents, who strongly oppose the inclusion of their areas in the enlarged municipalities plan, declaring their system of administration has proved more satisfactory than municipal government.

United States, it was officially indicated today, until the government receives an answer from Washington to its suggestion for a prolongation of the Hoover moratorium.

In official quarters it was said that there were to be negotiations at Washington to-day. The French delegation probably would be Jacques Bizot, treasury officer, who accompanied former Premier Laval to Washington last summer, and helped to draft the Hoover-Laval communique at that time.

JONES TAX IS CALLED UNFAIR

Vancouver, Nov. 14.—(Repeating Dr. G. M. Weir, who was unable to appear, Professor G. F. Drummond, a member of the economics staff of the University of British Columbia, offered his solution for the present world situation in an address to the Vancouver Institute in the university auditorium Saturday evening.

The speaker, supporting his statements with specific cases, pointed out that while the production curve had moved up rapidly in the last fifteen years, that of employment had failed to keep pace with it. Consequently unemployment had become a problem, even in normal times. In addition, there was too large a spread between the profits of the large companies and the wages they paid to their workers. The salaries of a nation might well be compared to a pyramid, with the mass of the population receiving a very small return, and the number of people decreasing as the income increased until the apex was reached, where one or two men got an enormous remuneration.

TAX CALLED UNFAIR

Continuing, Mr. Drummond stated that the Jones tax was unfair in principle, as it put a burden on all employees when taxation should increase directly with the income of the individual.

On the question of war debts, it was shown that because of the increased value of gold in relation to other products, as well as the recent variation in exchange, the European countries were actually having to pay back nearly twice the amount they had borrowed, with interest.

FIRE DAMAGES NANAIMO STORE

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, Nov. 14.—Prompt action by the fire department saved the grocery store of W. J. Pollard, Victoria Road, from being burned early this morning. The occupants were aroused at 5 o'clock by neighbors and Mr. Pollard, an elderly man, had a narrow escape, being nearly overcome by smoke.

Part of the store building was burned and some goods were damaged by water.

SUGGESTION FOR CATTLE TRADE

Canadian Press

London, Nov. 14.—Baron Strachie, a former Liberal parliamentary secretary to the Board of Agriculture, suggested in a letter to The London Times today that clause VIII of the Ottawa Agreements Bill should be amended to compel the slaughtering of all live cattle from Canada deemed unfit for breeding purposes.

Lord Strachie's proposal would compel the Minister of Agriculture to order of such Canadian cattle slaughtered on the ground that otherwise the clause admitting the cattle to the British market for the first time in years would defeat the absolute safeguard against introduction of cattle unfit for breeding.

The Ottawa Agreements Bill, in committee stage of the House of Lords, was expected to receive third reading today.

The government plans to make its provisions effective as from midnight to-night.

FIRE DESTROYS PLAINS SCHOOL

Roman Catholic Indian Pupils at Le Bret, Sask., Lose Their Home

Regina, Nov. 14.—In the small town of Le Bret, on the shore of Qu'Appelle Lake, Saskatchewan, the Qu'Appelle Roman Catholic Indian school lay in ruins today, after a fire which caused property damage of $250,000.

Housing 225 students, both boys and girls, in addition to priests and sisters of the Grey Nuns order, the school, one of the largest of its kind in America, was destroyed early Sunday morning.

No one was injured and the students, aided by staff members and volunteers, were able to save furnishings from the building before the flames completed the destruction. A defective electric wire is believed to have started the fire.

Many of those who rushed and assisted in fighting the fire were pioneers and remembered when the first building was destroyed by fire twenty-eight years ago.

ATTEMPT MADE TO ROB JEWEL STORE

Nanaimo, Nov. 14.—Thieves unsuccessfully attempted to enter the jewelry store of A. R. C. Hebbden, Commercial Street, yesterday evening. The hands and lock of the front door was removed, but the thieves were apparently disturbed before they were able to attain entry. Nothing was taken.

LABOR HOURS DISCUSSION

Ottawa, Nov. 14 (Canadian Press).—Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, looks for an early general acceptance of the forty-hour week throughout the world. On his return here yesterday from attending the meeting of the International Labor Office at Madrid, he said the forty-four-hour week was now fairly well established and the latest moves had been in the direction of a forty-hour week.

S. J. HUNGERFORD HAS GONE THROUGH RAILWAY MILL

Now Head of C.N.R. System, in 1886 as Machinist Apprentice He Carried His Dinner Pail to Quebec Shops When He Started Hard Work Early to Help Support Widowed Mother.

SAMUEL J. HUNGERFORD

acting president of the Canadian National Railways, who is here today inspecting the company's terminals. It is the first time Mr. Hungerford has been west since he assumed his new office.

Few railroad men in Canada have gone more thoroughly "through the mill" than has S. J. Hungerford, acting president of the Canadian National Railways. Mr. Hungerford's story is one of thoroughness in his job, of learning every phase of railroading from the days when, in 1886 he trudged along with his dinner pail to the Southeastern Railway shops in Farnham, Que. to start his railway career as an apprentice, who in due time became a machinist and from that start moved steadily on, until in forty-six years he had become acting president of the largest railroad system in America.

HARD WORK AT LOW PAY

It is a story of hard work at low pay during the early years; when fourteen-year-old Samuel Hungerford determined that he was big enough to do his share toward supporting the home of his widowed mother and of helping to provide the necessities and comforts for a sister who was, in the words of the 1880's, "in a decline." It is a story of a boy, earning eight cents an hour for ten hours a day—$4.80 a week—who studied at home every night and carried his books to work with him that he might study still more at lunch hour when the other young fellows around the railroad shops were playing football or indulging in various forms of horse-play or pranks which young fellows were prone to do then as now. It is a story of learning every part of railway mechanical work from the days of the old wood-burning locomotives to their modern giant successors, but it is a story which does not flow readily from the lips of the man who lived it. He is averse to talking much about himself; he will tell readily of the growth of the Canadian National Railways system, whose destinies are now in his hands; he will pour out unstinted praise of the men who have worked for him and with him during his more than forty-five years of railroad service, but he will not talk about himself. There are men, however, men in eastern Canada and western Canada, who have worked for and with Mr. Hungerford who will talk about him. Old-timers of the railway shops many of them; they will tell how he revolutionized shop practices in western Canada in many ways; how he always encouraged men who worked with him to develop new and improved methods of handling locomotives which were ever increasing in size and weight. They will tell the story that every man who worked with him developed a high sense of regard and respect, because they knew that Mr. Hungerford knew the ropes and asked no man to do a thing he would not or could not perform himself. They will talk of his "Mr. Hungerford" and some of them, a select few, will refer to him as "S. J." But whether they are the intimate few or the wider circle, they will speak of him as a man of tenacity, a man who is quiet and efficient and who appreciates quiet efficiency in others.

Men who worked with him or for him in the Southeastern shops in Farnham, at Windsor Street Station in Montreal, at Megantic and McAdam Junction in the east, or at Cranbrook, Calgary or Winnipeg in the west all tell the same story; that Mr. Hungerford moved up the ladder because he studied his job thoroughly from the time he first carried his dinner pail into the shops at Farnham, Que. in 1886.

NATIVE OF QUEBEC

Mr. Hungerford was born at Bedford, Que. in 1872. His father died before he was through school, and at fourteen years of age, though his widowed mother urged him to continue his schooling, young Sam Hungerford insisted that he was going out to get a job. The Southwestern Railway shops at Farnham provided the job. It was, however, with a promise to his mother that he would continue his studies, that Mr. Hungerford began railroading, and that promise was faithfully kept. Self-education was necessary, for the apprentices of 1886 did not receive the consideration and assistance from their employers that apprentices to-day receive—and incidentally, many of the improvements and practices of handling apprentices on the Canadian National Railways have been brought about under the jurisdiction of Mr. Hungerford. Completing his apprenticeship he became a machinist, and as such he worked at various points in Quebec, Ontario and Vermont. His post office address has changed many times. In the course of railway work he has been at Farnham, Montreal, Megantic, McAdam, Cranbrook, Calgary, Winnipeg and Toronto, and for the last nine and a half years, since when he has been vice-president of the Canadian National system in charge of operating, maintenance and construction, he has made his headquarters at Montreal. Though his pay cheques have been drawn on but three employers, the Canadian Pacific (which took over the Southeastern), the Canadian Northern and the Canadian National system, those pay cheques have reimbursed him for a wide range of duties. Had anyone, in 1886, reminded young Hungerford of the French army axiom, that every private soldier carried in his knapsack the baton of a field-marshal, and suggested that an apprentice lunch box could hide somewhere in its interior the insignia of president of the largest railway system in North America, the object of this sketch would have probably replied with what was then the rejoinder corresponding to the modern youth's "Oh, yeah?"

DIFFERENT NOW
Railroading and railroad shop practices were vastly different in 1886 to those of to-day. Then the shops worked on pliny locomotives which hauled trains that were mere toys as compared with the heavy freight drags or passenger loads found on the Canadian National Railways in 1932. Most of the shop work was performed by direct manual labor, the youth who showed promise of being able to swing a hefty sledge hammer with good effect, was the youth who looked forward to rapid promotion. The shops of 1886 were built for the purpose of getting plenty of hard work done, and while they had sufficient light and ventilation for their purposes, as considered in those days, they were not equipped with the mechanical and labor-saving devices which are considered absolute necessities to-day.

After working as a machinist, Mr. Hungerford in 1894 became chargeman for the Canadian Pacific Railway at Windsor Street Station, Montreal. Then he was advanced to assistant foreman and foreman at various points, and in 1901 he moved to Cranbrook, B.C. as locomotive foreman. At Cranbrook he was responsible for the development of several new features of shop methods and for the construction and repair of the first crane employed in the handling of locomotive parts, which were increasing in size and weight constantly. From Cranbrook Mr. Hungerford moved in 1903 to Calgary as master mechanic of the Western division of the Canadian Pacific and then a year later he became superintendent of shops at Winnipeg when the Canadian Pacific Railway was planning and building their new shops at that time.

In 1910 Mr. Hungerford joined the Canadian Northern Railway at Winnipeg, as superintendent of rolling stock, and two years later he moved to Toronto in the same capacity. Two years later he became general manager of eastern lines for the Canadian Northern, and in 1918 when the Canadian National system began to take form through the joint operation of Canadian Northern, Canadian Government and National Transcontinental Railways, Mr. Hungerford was appointed assistant vice-president of operating, maintenance and construction department.

In 1920 when the Grand Trunk Pacific Railways were bought into the Canadian National fold, Mr. Hungerford was appointed vice-president, operating and maintenance department and in 1922 the title and duties of general manager were added to those he already carried. In 1923 Mr. Hungerford came to Montreal as vice-president in charge of operation, maintenance and construction of the present Canadian National system, and on the retirement of Sir Henry Thorne-

COL. H. SNELL DIES IN EAST

Former Manager of Gordon Drysdale's Here Succumbs in Montreal

Montreal, Nov. 14.—Lt.-Col. Herbert Snell, vice-president and general manager of the Robert Simpson Montreal Limited, died here Saturday following a long illness. He had a distinguished overseas career during the Great War. He was fifty-two years of age.

He attended school at Port Hope, Ont., and moved to Moose Jaw, where he founded the department store of Herbert Snell Limited, of which he was president until 1910. He was an alderman of Moose Jaw for five years. At the outbreak of the war he raised and trained Moose Jaw companies for overseas, and in 1915 he raised and commanded the 46th Battalion. He subsequently became commander of the Fourth Division reinforcement training camp in France, continuing in that post until 1918. He was twice mentioned in dispatches.

After demobilization Col. Snell was connected with the Gordon Drysdale department store in Vancouver and Victoria from 1920 to 1922, when he joined Simpson's at Toronto. He came to Montreal in 1924 as general manager of Simpson's.

DEPORTATIONS ARE PLANNED

Canadian Press

Port Arthur, Ont., Nov. 14.—"Slim" Whalen, said to have been one of the leaders at the recent unemployment demonstrations here, was in jail today, pending investigation with deportation as the object in view. His arrest by Royal Canadian Mounted Police is believed to be one of the several moves being contemplated by the Department of Immigration and Mounted Police with a view of checking communistic activities in this city. The case of Elin Sandberg, generally known as Elin Davyson, who was convicted and sentenced to a fine of $50 and costs or two months in jail following a demonstration of unemployment before the home of Mayor Ibbotson, is also under scrutiny, police say. Sandberg is out on bail, following his appeal, after serving part of the sentence.

ton in 1932, he was appointed acting president, effective July 20.

Thus in forty-six years Mr. Hungerford climbed the ladder from apprentice to acting president of a railway system with more than 23,000 miles of line in Canada and the United States, with its telegraphs, hotels, steamships and other services, the largest railway system in America.

As might be expected, his busy life has left him little time for the development of hobbies, sports or other pursuits outside of railroading. Mr. Hungerford is, however, a keen golfer and would be even keener if his duties permitted.

Yesterday he played with members of his party over the Oak Bay Course.

WAR DEBTS AND THE TARIFF TO THE FORE

Now the presidential elections in the United States are over and the world knows that a Democrat government will be in office at Washington after March 4, speculation as to what Mr. Roosevelt will do about war debts and the tariff already has begun.

As far as the war debts are concerned the President-elect is reported to be standing by his party's platform in opposition to cancellation. In the meantime, however, the British government has suggested to the authorities at Washington that the payment of $95,550,000 which will fall due on December 15 shall be postponed pending negotiations looking to what is described as the final settlement of this question. Government officials in London are of the opinion that the British proposal will be accepted, since it will commit the United States to nothing more than a discussion. It is pointed out, moreover, that the European debtors to the neighboring republic have not assumed a solid front to press the issue, but that each nation will deal with its individual account.

A large body of public opinion in the United States favors the cancellation of war debts because if the slate were wiped clean the world would have a better chance to recover economically. Many influential newspapers and public men, on the other hand, are opposed to cancellation on the ground that the chief nations of Europe still are able to find huge sums of money annually for expenditure on arms which ought to be used for paying debts. They take the stand that real disarmament should precede any concession in respect of these debts, which means an increase in the debt burden of the United States of some ten billions of dollars. This money was loaned by the people who naturally expect to be paid.

All the London morning papers to-day endorsed the British government's proposal and considerable attention was given to the fact that with the world's trade less than half of what it was in 1929, and with approximately 25,000,000 people unemployed, the solution of the war debt problem would further the well-being of the world as a whole. It is pointed out, incidentally, that the British official view is that any negotiations in connection with this matter would not affect the forthcoming world economic conference in which the United States will take part, and which Premier MacDonald would hold at the earliest possible date.

Closely allied with war debts is the matter of the tariff. On this subject President-elect Roosevelt has made himself clear. It is the opinion of some of his advisers that he would prefer to see a readjustment of the Hawley-Smoot tariff before taking any positive action on the debt. Throughout his campaign he expressed the view that the present high tariff was one of the major causes of the world's economic ills and the basis of a situation that must be corrected first of all before other nations can find the wherewithal to pay their obligations to his country. On September 29, Mr. Roosevelt said "the Grundy tariff has largely extinguished the export market for our industrial and our farm supplies; it has prevented the payment of public and private debts to us and the interest thereon," and that "unless and until this process is reversed throughout the world, there is no hope for full economic recovery or for true prosperity in the United States."

While discussions about war debts and the tariff proceed, however, Mr. Roosevelt will have to watch from the sidelines as an interested spectator. Not until after his inauguration on March 4 will he have any federal executive authority. But it can be taken for granted that his first message to Congress, whatever he may do about war debts, will contain the promise of leadership in a new deal on the tariff question.

A PROPOSAL TO REFORM THE HOUSE OF LORDS

An unofficial joint committee of Conservative peers and members of the British House of Commons has drafted proposals to cut the Upper House to a membership of 320 compared with its present membership of 759. If there were no "joker" tied to this proposal, and if the House of Lords could agree on the point, the general public of Britain would unhesitatingly give it its blessing.

Until the passage of the Parliament Act in 1911 the House of Lords could veto any money bill; but when it threw out the famous Lloyd George budget it caused such an uproar that an election was held on this particular issue and the Liberal government of the day was returned. The proposal which this unofficial joint committee has drawn up does not disturb the present arrangement in this regard, and all money bills, so designated by the Speaker of the House of Commons, if not passed by the House of Lords without amendment, may become law without its concurrence on the royal assent being signified. The "joker," however, is in the suggestion that any bill other than a money bill vetoed by an absolute majority in the House of Lords would not be re-submitted by the House of Commons until after a general election.

What the British Parliament does at Westminster in a matter of this kind is its own business. Nevertheless, the proposal looks very much like a further attempt by Toryism to grab more power in Great Britain than it already has. We can imagine the reaction of the average citizen, who, by the way, may not be a Tory, on seeing legislation in which he is vitally interested becoming the caprice of peers of the realm who are as far out of touch with the realities of life as the man in the moon. It is quite conceivable—not perhaps while the present regime is in control—that one or two general elections might have to be held every year in order for Parliament to obtain a mandate on matters which, while of only remote interest to hostile peers, might be of the deepest concern to the taxpayers, the people in the mass. But it will not be surprising if the "reform" of the House of Lords will be passed by until its whole membership considers itself insufficiently important to remain in existence.

SEEKING NEW AGREEMENTS FOR BUSINESS EXTENSION

One of the points emphasized by the British delegates to the recent Ottawa conference was that Great Britain, while entering into trade agreements with the various parts of the empire, would still be free to enter into reciprocal pacts with foreign nations, since her economic life largely depends upon her business with them. She has just started what one correspondent calls the "biggest combined tariff offensive in her history" by inviting representatives of Sweden, Norway, Finland, Denmark, and Iceland to meet her representatives in London to conclude a series of new agreements intended to enlarge her commerce with them—and all have accepted gladly. Some already have arrived in London and others will be there soon. It is then suggested that toward the end of the year there may be further conferences which will transfer the fight for new trade to South America.

While all this is going on we are told by Mr. A. C. Cummings, in a dispatch to The Vancouver Province, that "those British businesses which view with alarm the tariff concessions made to Canada and the other Dominions at the Ottawa conference have become suddenly vocal throughout the United Kingdom," that "protests from them fill the trade and daily press and deputations to Premier MacDonald and the Board of Trade disclose how much they fear that Ottawa concessions will damage their business." A part of the dispatch from which we have quoted follows:

To indicate the character of their grievances, I may cite what the fruit and vegetable, metal, timber and dairy produce importers, the machine tool makers and the engineering firms say about what they claim to be the new burdens imposed on them. It is an interesting sidelight on the complexity of Britain's tariff problem.

The National Federation of Fruit and Potato Trades Association, for example, with a yearly volume of business in excess of $400,000,000, asserts that under the 10 per cent duties first imposed when Britain abandoned free trade, the national government put on taxes amounting to $15,000,000. This would not have been so bad, only the Ottawa agreements added heavily to the impost, with the consequence that the imports of fruit and vegetables are now inadequate to supply the United Kingdom, and prices have risen. Either by reason of seasonal difference or distance, the home and empire producers now can not meet the market demands throughout a large part of the year.

British Columbia's interest in greater lumber sales—with the exception of Russia, Finland is the largest shipper to Britain—to Great Britain, of course, is well understood, while it has been hoped that more of our apples under the preference would find their way to the British market. The federation to which Mr. Cummings refers points out that from September to December the United States supplies forty-six per cent of the British requirements, and from January to March, seventy-eight per cent. In practice, the exchange and the duty together amount to fifty-six per cent. This, the federation thinks, is too much.

As far as pears are involved, the federation explains that the only empire supplies during the months from October to January are shipped to the British market from Canada. But this country's total contribution is only 15,000 cwt., and Britain has to make up the balance of its needs, about 342,000 cwt., from foreign—and highly taxed—sources.

These repercussions to the agreements will no doubt continue for some time, and while it is only fair to wait and see how they work out, early reactions in Great Britain and in Canada show how difficult it is to steer trade and commerce into artificially constructed channels. Despite all the conferences of statesmen, fundamental economic laws and important geographical considerations will always prevail and determine to a very large extent the character of the world's buying and selling.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

WILL GERMANY REARM?
 The London Daily Mail

If Germany is seeking to rearm, then it is quite certain that France will not consent to reduce her own armaments; and we shall see the opening of a fresh race in armaments, with all its menace of unrest and disaster. Such a situation would be tragic indeed. Is it too much to hope that the German people may realize, before it is too late, what the attitude of their government means?

AMERICAN FINANCE
 The Chicago Tribune

The great government of the United States is moving toward bankruptcy at a headlong rate, and in Washington, as elsewhere, the spenders are adamant. In the last session of Congress measures calling for billions of public money were proposed, while the proposals of retrenchment were cut down to an infinitesimal sum. In that session the public finances of the nation were brought to the edge of bankruptcy, and there is no question that unless the next Congress faces the facts they will pass over the edge. Bankruptcy of the United States Government seemed incredible in the heyday of national prosperity. It is now a certainty unless public spending is checked and drastically reduced.

Loose Ends

Big news from New York—another great scoop for this column—more pious horror in high circles—a little girl sees a big parade—and a dangerous sentiment is uttered.

By H. B. W.

SOLD

PRECISELY AT this point an important special dispatch reached this column from New York, and I hasten to relay it to you as follows: "New York, November 14—Colonel E. J. Ryan arrived here to-day to sell the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to the most gigantic group of financial giants in America. At an all-day conference on Wall Street with J. Pierpont Morgan, Owen D. Young and John Rockefeller Jr., Colonel Ryan made satisfactory progress with the deal, though he admitted that there were serious obstacles to overcome. It required some hours for Colonel Ryan to explain to the financial triumvirate just where British Columbia was. Mr. Morgan said he had always believed it to be a colony in South America. Mr. Young thought it was a British possession in Africa, but Mr. Rockefeller, whose knowledge of the world is extensive, said he knew without explanation that British Columbia was on the eastern side of Alaska just within the Arctic Circle, and he wondered what a railway could be built through the perpetual snow and ice of this region. He suggested the use of cheap Eskimo labor. Colonel Ryan was able to explain away these misapprehensions by quotations from speeches by a man named Tolmie on agricultural conditions and deformed strawberries."

THAT SURELY is a dangerous sentiment. That surely savors of the socialism and communism which Premier Bennett says is spreading like a disease through this country. That is the kind of thing which should be suppressed by government which alone stands between us and chaos. One suspects that it is part of a manifesto smuggled into Toronto direct from Moscow by a ruffian with black whiskers. It reeks of Bolshevism and red blood. Well, it is a recent statement by one of the world's great capitalists, Mr. Henry Ford. Probably you've heard of him, the fellow who lives near Detroit.

AT THE END of the conference the three financial giants agreed to give careful consideration to the proposal of Colonel Ryan that they immediately advance about $20,000,000 to buy the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. But in the meantime Mr. Morgan asked Colonel Ryan if he could lend them $150 so that they might buy themselves a simple dinner. Financial giants do not eat regularly these days. Colonel Ryan readily made the loan, and Messrs. Morgan, Young and Rockefeller charged the conference had been a complete success. It was announced that no one will need to jump out of a skyscraper window so long as Colonel Ryan remained in the city."

PIOUS HORROR

NOW THAT the recent evidence taken before the Royal Commission on Canadian Railways has been filed in the parliamentary library at Ottawa, rare pearls of wisdom are being dug out of its vast deposits of verbiage. One proof is stressed in many papers is the general consensus of government railway ownership by the important railway experts questioned, including those of the Canadian National Railways. They all condemned government ownership right heartily, but it seems to me they forgot to mention some interest to them and the public in the government of Canada hadn't taken over the railways which private owners had bankrupted, and operated them, then the country served by these railways would have no transportation now at all, and many of the gentlemen protesting against government ownership would be without jobs.

YOU WOULD think by the propaganda being spread about the country that the government of Canada had insisted on going into the railway business against the best advice of business men, that it had invaded this field to make money for itself and to ruin the privately-owned roads. I dare say that in another ten years, a new generation of voters will refuse to believe that the government was forced to take over the railways when private business, untrammelled, free, able and infallible had made a complete fiasco of everything and was broke. That is nearly always the way with government ownership. It is only invoked when private business has made a mess of its own affairs and threatens to leave the public without such necessities as transportation. Then, when the government-owned railway continues to be a losing proposition, this is regarded as a perfect proof that government ownership is fundamentally unsound. But just try to get any private company to take over the Canadian National Railways and pay all their debt charges and maintain their present service. No private company, of course, would or could do it. But that doesn't prevent us regarding government ownership with pious horror.

GETTING OLD
 IF YOU NEED to be convinced that the war has been over a long time, and that we are all getting old, you should look at the little girl from next door who has to say about the Armistice Day parade last Friday. She has just been over to tell me about it, puffed with amazement: "You know we were at the parade! My, but it was a fine parade, but not as good as the circus parade we saw in Vancouver, 'cause there were no lions or monkeys in cages at this parade. They must have forgotten them, I guess. But there were soldiers in great big tall hats what bobbed up and down, and red coats, just as red as my dress. Yes, I had on my red dress, and my red hair ribbon and my red pants, too, under my skirt, so in case I stood on my head, my pants would match my dress. And these soldiers, they had on skirts just like mine! That's funny, eh? I guess they must have been lady soldiers when they had skirts on just like mine, eh? But some of them were very big soldiers. That's the first time I've saw ladies with big whiskers on them."

Um, um. These soldiers they had big guns over their shoulders. But they didn't shoot anybody. I waited and waited for them to shoot somebody but they didn't. What's the use of having guns over their shoulders if they don't shoot anybody? Then everybody sang God Save the King, and I say to myummy, 'Is there anything wrong with the King or anything?' But she says 'Keep quiet, or sing with the rest.' So I sang as hard as I could, but I didn't know the words very well so I just kept singing 'God Save the King! God Save the King!' as loud as I can.

and an old man, he say, 'Cheeky brat! What's a cheeky brat, anyway? Is a cheeky brat nice or not? I guess not. He was a nasty old man with a red nose like my dress. So I made a face at him and kept on singing as hard as I could.'

FLESH CREEPING

JUST TO MAKE the Canadian Government's flesh creep, I want to quote a revolutionary sentiment and see if anybody can guess who uttered it: "We admit in an economic revolution, but we have not had the accompanying psychic revolution which is the ruler of construction. Russia's revolution became constructive when its former spirit of resentment changed into optimism and courage. It is forging ahead because there is life there. They all work and try to do something to make a life for everyone, not for one class against the other. Russia's young are learning, and working while they learn. I am for Russia in its creative attitude toward life, for its attitude of self-help. That spirit is not present in this country yet, but it will come. MEMORIAL HELD AT CATHEDRAL

Large Congregation Attended
Special Service Yesterday
Afternoon

A large congregation filled Christ Church Cathedral yesterday afternoon, when a special inter-denominational citizens' service was held in observation of the Remembrance Day period. The band of the Fifth British Columbia Coast Brigade, Canadian Artillery, played for the hymns. The congregation included Mayor and Mrs. Leeming, members of the City Council and the School Board. The service was attended by naval and military officers and a large delegation of members of the I.O.D.E., headed by standard bearers. The various organizations of veterans were well represented. The auxiliary to the Navy League and the auxiliaries of the various Legion branches were represented by detachments of members headed by standard bearers.

Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, led the prayers. Rev. E. A. Henry, D.D., of Fairfield United Church, read the lesson and the benediction was pronounced by Very Rev. C. S. Quinton, Dean of Columbia.

The address by Rev. F. H. Buck, B.A., M.C., was a brilliant presentation of the high principles held by the young men of Canada, who had rushed to arms at the outbreak of the Great War. Mr. Buck believed a majority had joined the nation's armed forces with a determination to bring about the ending of all war.

The speaker vividly recalled scenes in Flanders during the war days of the Great War, and portrayed the hardships and sufferings which the soldiers had endured with cheerfulness. In an eloquent tribute to the gallantry of all arms, the heroism of the military forces and the invaluable services rendered by the Navy and the Air Force were touched upon.

The preacher closed his address with a review of present-day conditions, asking whether the world to-day was endeavoring to carry to successful conclusion the high objectives which animated the young men of 1914. "Are we going to carry out our Remembrance? What are we going to do to carry on the trust bequeathed to us by those who died. What are we prepared to do to achieve the objectives which those fine young men cheerfully gave their lives to attain?" Mr. Buck asked in conclusion.

The hymns sung were "O God, Our Help," "Lord of Heaven and Earth" and "O Valiant Heart." The Last Post and Reveille were sounded, and the service concluded with the National Anthem.

TANGLE COMES ON PARK SITE

Property Set Aside But Parks Committee Does Not Want It

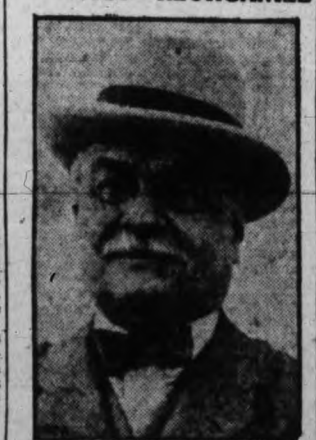

As a result of a difference of opinion between two City Council committees the City Council has reserved a piece of property at the corner of Boucher Street and Poul Road for park purposes, but the parks department does not want anything to do with it.

Acting on the land committee's advice the council put the property on the reserved list for park purposes in the future. Then the parks committee stepped in and inspected the area, reporting that it was unsuitable as a park site. The council accepted this view.

The property is still on the reserved list, however, and cannot be sold until it is taken off.

W. H. Warren, parks superintendent, in reporting on the site, said it was too small for park purposes, was not suitable for small children as it was split by Boucher Street and was irregular in shape.

SAYS HOOVER'S PARTY MUST REORGANIZE

DR. NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER

Associated Press
New York, Nov. 14.—Unless the Republican Party is reorganized under constructive and courageous leadership, in Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's opinion, it will soon pass out of existence and be replaced by a "true Liberal party" in the United States.

Declaring the hope of the Republican Party lay in its youth the president of Columbia University said that "if the younger members will exert themselves to produce constructive, forward-facing and Liberal leadership, the party may be quickly reorganized."

8.30. The box office at the Royal Victoria is open for the sale of seats. The main number to be played by the Seattle Symphony is the Dvorak "From the New World" symphony, very often mistakenly called "New World." In this work the airs brought by the composer from his native land are intermingled with the negro and Indian songs in which Dvorak had become greatly interested.

BONUS VETERANS TWO MINERS ARE IN WASHINGTON KILLED BY BLAST

Associated Press
Washington, Nov. 14.—The Washington Star says the police were informed by a staff officer of the original bonus expeditionary force that 2,500 of its members had returned to Washington and 5,000 more were planning to come back before the United States Congress convenes December 5. The Star says John N. Newlin told police the men had been returning in small groups ever since the exodus of the veterans from Johnstown, Penn., where they went following their eviction from the capital in late July. Most of them were quartered, he said, in private homes, subsisting on governmental compensation, while others had found employment.

Explosion in Pit Second of Sort in England in Two Days

Canadian Press
Durham, Eng., Nov. 14.—Two miners were killed in an explosion to-day in the colliery of Pease and partners at Ushaw Moor, near here. The explosion, which occurred deep inside the mine but whose resultant fire-damp was believed confined to a small area, was the second within two days. Twenty-five miners were killed Saturday by an explosion in the Edgely colliery, Aston-in-Makerfield, near Wigan. William Timmons of Ushaw Moor and Arthur Gill of Edgely were the two victims. Timmons was working his first shift after an absence of one month due to ill health.

TRIBUTE PAID SOOKE HEROES

Remembrance Day Service
Held on Friday at Sooke
War Memorial

A Remembrance Day service was held on Friday at the Memorial, with a large number of residents from Sooke and the surrounding districts present. The Legion and members of the Canadian Scottish met at the Sooke Hall at 10.30 o'clock. Pipe Major Wishart played the parade to the Memorial, where a Cenotaph guard of four Canadian Scottish men were on duty. A short service was given by Rev. E. F. Church, chaplain, followed by the lowering of the flag, the "Last Post," and two minutes' silence. Wreaths were placed on the Memorial during the playing of "Flowers of the Forest," and the "Reveille" was played while the flag was raised.

Ex-service men of the Otter Point camp were guests of the Legion members in the Sooke Hall following the service. Societies of the district placing wreaths on the Memorial included the Legion, the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute, the Ladies' Aid Society of Knox Presbyterian Church, the Women's Auxiliary of Holy Trinity Church, the Sassexon Branch of the Women's Auxiliary and the Sooke and North Sooke schools.

Mr. Cameron is reserved, resourceful, reliable; a musician, not an instrumentalist. He has selected the programmes to be played at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Wednesday afternoon and evening with great care, and with the object of suiting every taste. LONDON MISSES GRETA GARBO
Swedish Film Star Unrecognized When She Stayed at Mayfair Hotel

Associated Press
London, Nov. 14.—Greta Garbo, the film actress, put on a pair of dark horn-rimmed glasses, buttoned a heavy blue coat up around her ears, and saw the sights of London last week without being identified; it was learned yesterday.

She registered a few days ago as Greta Gustafson in a little Mayfair hotel. No one spotted her, and now film fans of London are puzzled.

She could not be located yesterday evening so it was not known whether she had gone to Paris, was on her way back to Stockholm, or had headed for the United States.

The Sunday Dispatch sought to explain the "Garbo mystery" by saying she had been banned from the United States by the immigration authorities. The dispatch said "the United States immigration law knows nothing of greatness or romance, and that Garbo and the authorities is just another Sweden and must take her place in line for a visa."

YOUR
CHILDRENby OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
7000 BY NEA SERVICECORRECT DIET NOT HARD TO ACHIEVE

We don't hear so much nowadays about caloric counting, except perhaps where a member of the family is dieting.

Perhaps it is better so, because I really believe we reached a stage where the average mother dreaded meal time. Cooking turned into arithmetic. If she was too busy to count food units she had a feeling that she wasn't quite doing her duty and that any digestive ailment in the family was due to her lack of bookkeeping.

We graduated from calories to vitamins, so to speak. And although I think the subject more important than that of calories in getting up balanced meals and providing the children with those mysterious chemicals necessary to health and growth, there is still too much discouragement among women about them just as there used to be about calories.

HARD TO "AVOID" RIGHT FOODS!
Not long ago I read a discussion of the subject by a doctor who specializes in dietetics. He made the remark that with the varieties of food available in nearly all communities of our country to-day it would be difficult to go wrong. That actually it would be harder to avoid necessary food values than to get them.

The diet of all babies up to a year old should be suggested by a doctor or a clinic. During the second year the mother should have professional advice about the baby's food every three months or so.

After that she should have a general idea either by reading good books on the subject or by still seeking knowledge from that ever dependable source—her physician.

For one thing he will tell her that cake and pie, hot cakes, heavy puddings and any rich desserts are not good for little children. Older children exercising considerably may have a minimum of some of these things, he will explain, without coming to harm—provided they are well digested easily, and do not eat them at night.

MILK AND LOTS OF IT
He will urge her to see that each child has a great deal of milk, both plain and cooked in food—as much as possible.

Not too much meat will be his next warning. It should never be fried, but either baked, boiled or broiled. Fish, eggs, or chicken are good alternatives. Vegetables of all kinds are good, especially those that grow above ground. The others are valuable too, but should not be used to the exclusion of the leafy ones.

Starches are all right but a meal should not contain more than one such food. A meal of potatoes, macaroni, bread, and—well, say—corn, contains four forms of starch and little else. A bad combination indeed!

Some form of butter fat is necessary and so is some form of fruit, either fresh, dried, or canned. These are things your guide, the doctor, will tell you. I think. Also that the children must not "boil" food but chew it well. That they should be happy at mealtime but not excited. That fresh cooked food has more value than leftovers. That meals should be regular. That vegetable soup is very nourishing. That children should not be allowed to form too many "food habits" and eat only the few things that they like best.

To change meals each day so that there may be a variety is best. It costs no more to vary meals than to have the same things over and over again, and by doing so you are sure of every sort of "vitamin."

ANOTHER THEATRICAL ROMANCE

Broadway has it all figured out that Marilyn Miller, late of the music shows and of Hollywood, will be married before Christmas to Don Alvarado, young Latin-American actor. It was about four months ago that Marilyn admitted, out in the film belt, that they were engaged. They were snapped here at the opening of a new New York night club.

MUST CHANGE
MONEY BASIS

Stouffville, Ont., Nov. 14.—Wheat at eighty cents a bushel, with an increased income from that source in Albert alone of $30,000,000 would be a realized fact if Canada would go off the gold standard, Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P. for Southwestern Grey, Ont., told a mass meeting here in forecasting immediate return of comparative prosperity if "money" were issued, not against gold, but against the natural wealth of Canada; the goods and services the country are capable of delivering.

"When the dollar, which is not wealth but a symbol of wealth, becomes the centre of our national life, it is time for a change," she said. "Prices follow the volume of money down. If more money were issued and the quantity goods remained as at present prices would go up."

RIGHTLY FED BABY STILL

The most puzzling feeding cases are those in which the child is being fed exactly as a baby should be fed, and still refuses to gain a satisfactory number of ounces. When the baby is not gaining and has no appetite for the food offered, the case becomes just that much more complicated.

TURNS DOWN MILK

Such is Mrs. B. W.'s problem: "My daughter is eight and one-half months old, weighed six pounds at birth and now weighs fifteen and one-quarter. She gained until we put her on the bottle. She doesn't seem to relish milk."

Here is her schedule: 6 a.m., six ounces of formula; 8 a.m., three tablespoons of cereal cooked in milk, and six ounces of formula; 2 p.m., one-half yolk of hard-cooked egg, six ounces of formula; 5 p.m., orange juice and cod liver oil; 8 p.m., cereal and formula; 10 p.m., formula.

"Sometimes she will only take three or four ounces of her formula; sometimes she refuses vegetable or cereal; sometimes she will take milk from a cup when she refuses it by bottle. Shall I wean her to the cup, and how? She is very good, has four teeth, sleeps all night and takes two naps daily. Could I feed her more cereal? She would take more if I would give it to her?"

NEEDS NOURISHMENT
You failed to mention of what her formula consists, but if she refuses more than three or four ounces of milk, it had better be nearly whole milk so that she gets the nourishment, if not the usual quantity. Give her six ounces of whole boiled milk at each of her five feedings. Offer several tablespoons of cereal at both 10 a.m. and 6 p.m., with part of the feeding over it. Offer the rest of the milk to drink from cup or bottle.

Give her plenty of water to drink between meals so that her fluid needs are satisfied, because she does not get the usual quantity of water in her milk formula. There is nothing wrong with your schedule, which fact makes it the more difficult to suggest any startling changes that might bring startling results. You might try changing from the concentrated cod liver oil you are using to a plain oil.

SKIM CREAM
Skim all cream from the milk. Rich milks are often responsible for wanting appetites, and skimming is desirable when baby is leaving part of each feeding.

The leaflet on "Weaning From Bottle to Cup," which you may have for a self-addressed, stamped envelope is helpful in outlining the method of introducing a new type of utensil. But it doesn't make much difference whether you give one whole feeding of milk by cup and then a whole feeding by bottle or whether you give part of each feeding by cup and the rest by bottle. The latter method is more often successful because at first babies have only a limited capacity for drinking milk by cup and, when tired, go back to the familiar, more primitive bottle drinking.

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICIA HART

BRUNETTES' HAIR MUST BE NEAT

Blondes may get away with coiffures that are fluffy. But brunettes, as a rule, must go in for neatness above all else in the matter of hairdressing.

Of course there is dark hair and dark hair! Your coiffure depends on the quality, quantity, the type of person you are and the kind of clothes you wear.

If your hair is dark and just average thickness and average quality, look first of all to the way it grows. No your head before you decide on your coiffure. Many a brunette has achieved a distinctive hair-do by playing up a cowlick or a widow's peak.

A new coiffure for brunettes, that is becoming to many, parts the hair neatly high on the right side. It is scarcely waved at all until it hits the eyebrow line. Then a single soft wave around the head. From there on it is bobbed so that you can get a double wave all around the lower part of your head.

The top story is neatly fixed in place, the bottom layer is curled under. With your hair brushed off your forehead, rounding back at the temples and curling under at bottom ear-length, you get a coiffure that is soft and feminine yet neat as wax and flattering to your features.

If you have that alinky, sleek, very, very fine black hair that often has a touch of indigo to its blackness, you might try doing something with a few bangs, a sleek headline and then either a smart bun at the back or a natural hairline with flat curls.

Curls are not in vogue this year, yet they must be kept very well in hand. It means extra care in grooming and extra pats throughout the day or evening.

One very tricky evening coiffure for dark heads has a kind of tiara of up-standing curls right in front, wide, soft waves flat to the head until the back is reached, then a double row of curls up the back of the head. Nothing is more exhilarating to a woman than a new coiffure. Why not experience until you achieve one that suits and flatters you?

INVENTORS SHOW
NEW WONDERS

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times London.—Doctors, miners, typists and many other people figure among the inventors represented at the International Inventions exhibition organized by the Institute of Patentees at the Central Hall, Westminster.

Some of the ideas are startling. A naval architect who has invented an automatic baby-feeder calls it "a device for supporting an infant's feeding bottle, enabling safe automatic feeding; teething rings incorporated."

The device consists of an adjustable bracket securable to a stand or cot and carrying a cradle for holding the bottle in the desired position. It is claimed that it "provides a welcome rest for mother or nurse and that the teething rings are a toy when not in use."

A mechanical engineer has invented a hygienic mustard pot and a tomato slicer; an accountant a milk bottle holder which guards against dirt and is useful for picnics; a dentist a clothes-dryer; a doctor an ingenious collapsible butt; and a solicitor a hammock chair which folds up.

Many inventions have been inspired by the needs of the times. To defeat footpads and bag-snatchers there is a strap device which tightens at the slightest pull and acts as a warning. This was thought of by a leather worker and may be useful for bank cashiers and women shoppers.

A coal miner has designed a mechanical mine signalling apparatus which, by accurate communication with the top of a lift-shaft, is intended to diminish the possibility of accident. It tells the driver exactly when it is safe to bring the cage up or down.

The inventions cover ships, airplanes, household difficulties and almost every field of human activity.

New Combinations
It is smart this year to match up your shoes to your coat's color and your hats to your frocks. This new idea in accessories gives pleasing effects that are different.

University Groups Studying Ancient Life of Ireland

Harvard Sends Men From U.S. to Make Five-year Survey Which Will Disclose Foundations of Present-day Social and Economic Conditions of Island

By Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press Science Editor
Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 14.—The qualities of character making an Irishman will be brought out in a unique anthropological survey of Ireland announced over the week-end at Harvard University.

Undertaken with the approval of the President of the Irish Free State, the project is regarded as a pioneer anthropological survey of a modern nation.

The study will cover five years, dealing with the social and economic life of the Irish people of the present and the past, their material civilization and their racial characteristics.

During the last summer two members of the department of anthropology of Harvard visited Ireland to make a preliminary survey. Excavations were undertaken at several points, new evidences of early Irish life were revealed both in pre-historic and early Christian periods.

On the basis of that study, the five-year survey is now being planned by Dr. E. A. Hooton—to approach the subject from three angles, archaeology, sociology and physical anthropology.

DIRECT WORK

The archaeological phase is to be executed by Dr. Hugh O'Neill Hencken, assistant curator of European archaeology in the Peabody Museum of Harvard University. The survey of social and economic life is directed by W. Lloyd Warner, assistant professor of social anthropology at Harvard. The third phase, dealing with a racial survey, will be under the direction of Dr. Hooton, who is superintending the entire project.

During this summer's survey, according to Dr. Hooton, there was discovered a "crannog" or lake dwelling of the tenth century, A.D., at Ballin-derry, erected on a raft-like platform of logs in the centre of a lake. High palisades of stakes surrounded it. Nearby were remains of dugout canoes. The structure, it is believed, was inhabited for nearly 1,000 years by the ancient Irish, probably as many as forty persons at a time. Among the finds were truckloads of animal bones, horse, deer, wild boar, domesticated cattle, sheep and goats, wooden tubs and barrels, iron knives and axes, bone combs and bronze pins.

GREAT CAIRN EXPLORED

Another discovery was a huge cairn or stone grave mound dating back to the pre-historic Bronze Age. It is situated on the 600-foot hill at Knockast, traditionally known as the Hill of Victory. There were unearthed forty-three burials belonging to at least two separate periods of remote pre-history in the Bronze Age, dating back to about 500 B.C.

There were evidences of thirty-nine cremations, from which the bones had been placed in small chambers or cists made of flat slabs of stone about two feet square. Pottery, stone implements and three bronze daggers were found. All the archaeological finds have been presented to the Irish nation by Harvard.

Prof. Warner also began a survey of the modern economic and social life of County Clare. Marketing, land tenure, political institutions, the family and social classes were examined. This investigation is similar to one recently made by Prof. Warner and assistants in New England.

The physical anthropology studies under Dr. Hooton will be deferred, as that part of the work can be completed more rapidly than the other phases.

He met Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, and discussed relief matters in Alberta. His second appointment was with Hon. T. G. Murphy, Minister of the Interior and Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs, with whom he discussed the rights of Alberta Indians to shoot game under the agreement by which the Dominion transferred natural resources to the provinces.

Hon. M. A. MacPherson, Attorney-General and Provincial Treasurer of Saskatchewan, and Hon. Ian McPherson, a member of the Manitoba Government, will arrive in Ottawa tomorrow.

The three prairie provincial ministers will confer sometime to-morrow with Hon. E. M. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, and Hon. W. A. Gordon on financial and relief matters appertaining to the prairie provinces.

Burnaby Survey Starts This Week

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Nov. 14.—Dr. H. L. Brittain, director of the Citizens' Research Institute of Toronto, who has been asked by Burnaby Council to make a survey of the operations of the municipality, arrived in the city Sunday and met Reeve W. A. Pritchard to-day about commencement of his duties. He expects to be here for about two weeks.

Decision to have a municipal survey was made by the electors in a plebiscite at the last civic election. Dr. Brittain stated the survey was no new experience, as his bureau had made similar studies in several eastern cities. Dr. Brittain himself was a member of the commission that investigated Vancouver civic salaries some years ago.

HUNT "JUNGLES" FOR OHIO BOY

Mystery has completely enveloped the disappearance of eight-year-old Ebert Holleran, who on October 23 waved good-bye to a playmate and started running to his Cleveland, O., home. He did not reach home. The only tangible clue was given by a Lorain, O., couple, who identified pictures of Ebert as the boy who appeared at their home, asked for food, and then left on a freight train with a hobo. Cities in the Mid-west and West have been urged to watch for Ebert in hobo "jungles." Above, left, is the latest photograph of Ebert, and right, his mother, Mrs. George Holleran, who believes a hobo abducted her son.

TWO WOMEN ARE BELIEVED SLAIN

Los Angeles Police Search for Them; Robbers Are Accused

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Nov. 14.—A blood-stained butcher knife, found in a wildly deserted house after police had received a telephone call that a woman had been slain at the address, was the cause of a search to-day for Mrs. Edith Smith Jaynes and her close friend, Mrs. O. Hesselbarth, who lived with her.

District Attorney Buron Fitts said Mrs. Hesselbarth and Mrs. Jaynes, former wife of a Los Angeles policeman, had furnished the prosecutor's office with information that a gang of robbers had recently moved into the city. "We believe either one or both of these women have been killed because they talked," Fitts said.

Police quoted a woman as crying hysterically over the telephone: "Four men have murdered a woman out here and taken her for a ride in the desert."

The unidentified informant added that the woman had wounded one of the attackers with a butcher knife and had held up a photograph of her infant child in a plea that her life be spared.

Twenty-one Candidates In Civic Race To Date

Fourteen Are Seeking City Council Seats; Few Stand For School Trustees

Only One New Face in Civic Field for Alderman; Campaign Starts To-night

With the start of the race fixed for this evening, when the first campaign meeting takes place, the field for civic honors to-day began to assume the proportions which marked the hectic fight for seats last year.

For nine vacant offices there are already twenty-one prospective candidates and nomination day is more than two weeks away.

Three men are listed in the majority race, but it is expected this will develop into a straight fight between the present incumbent, David Leeming, and E. B. Andros, who contested the seat unsuccessfully last year. George B. Crump, who was announced as a candidate, may not run.

Although there are fourteen office-seekers in the list for aldermen, the only one new to the civic field is Frederick J. Crowhurst, ex-councillor of Saanich. Besides the retiring aldermen who are seeking re-election, the remainder are those who either held civic office before or have stood previously as council candidates. Five seats must be filled.

FOUR IN TRUSTEE LIST

For school board seats, for which there is no indemnity, there is a dearth of candidates, however. The retiring trustees, three in number, will stand for re-election, and there is one other candidate out to date.

Several of the aspirants for aldermanic honors will speak from the same platform as E. B. Andros, majority candidate, in the first meeting of his campaign at South Park School this evening.

Following is the unofficial list of candidates:

Boys' Club Will Play Santa Claus

Thirty Lads Will Solicit and Repair Toys to Brighten Homes Where Funds Are Low.

Thirty enterprising boys who have formed a club in connection with Douglas Street Baptist Church plan to do their best to make Christmas brighter this year in homes where money is too scarce to purchase toys.

Young Jim Yates, secretary of the club, announces the club's plans to-day in a note in which he appeals for support.

"We plan to solicit from door to door for old toys, books, games or anything that is suitable for a Christmas present for children," he says. "This campaign will be under the leadership of G. Farmer, J. Yates, P. Mackintosh and H. and D. Tyson."

"Nearly every family has boys and girls who have grown too old for their toys. Some of them might need repairing or re-painting. The boys will put these toys in shape if it is possible. If you have any toys for girls we ask you to donate them, as the girls' club of this church has consented to repair them. If the boys do not have the strongest support from you there will be lots of children who will not see very much of Christmas this year."

"Do not leave it to the next family to do the donating," Jim says in his appeal, "you do your part and we can assure you that this campaign will be successful. If you have any donations, toward the club, please send them to Christmas present fund, telephone G 8477, leaving your name and address. We will call for them."

BACKS APPEAL OF RED CROSS

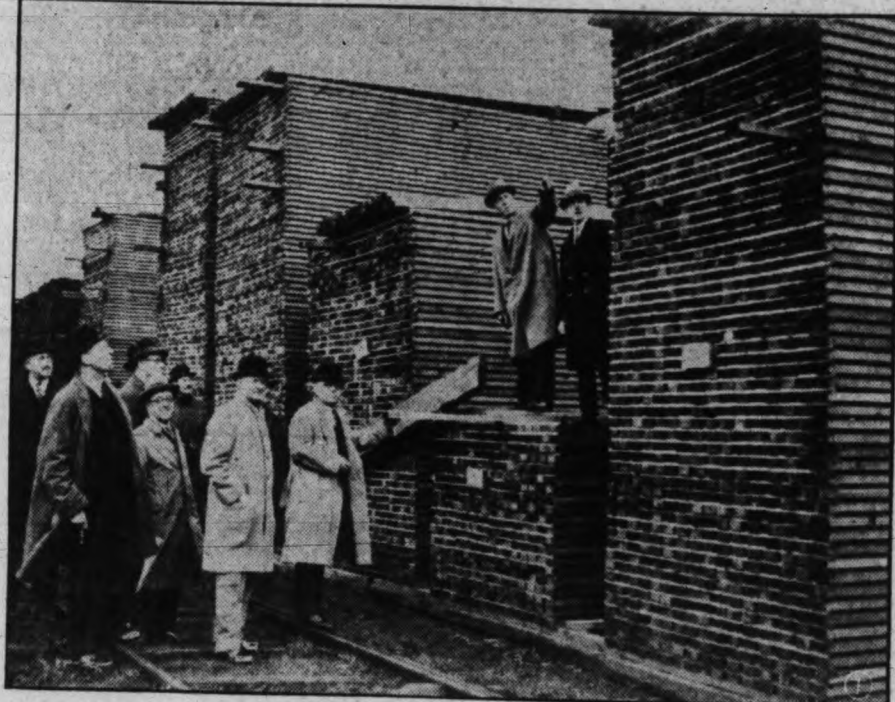

Mayor Leeming Speaks in Support of Humanitarian Organization

Work being done by the Red Cross and its great need for funds to carry on its humanitarian endeavors were stressed by Mayor David Leeming in an appeal for subscriptions during the organization's drive. He asked all Victorians who could to send their donations to the local headquarters, 317 Belmont House, as soon as possible.

"All of us remember the Red Cross in the war for its invaluable service to the soldiers in the field and the sick and wounded in hospitals," Mayor Leeming said. "In Victoria to-day we know the Red Cross best because of the workshop on Johnson Street, where since the war ninety-three disabled men have been helped to maintain their independence by working at useful occupations instead of submitting to a life of demoralizing idleness which had not been for the Red Cross, would have been their unfortunate lot. This has been a splendid part of the work of the Red Cross and has commanded everyone's admiration."

"But this is by no means all the Red Cross is doing in British Columbia. There must be people in Victoria who have had relatives who, after serving in the war, suffered from that service so that they had to be admitted to one of the provincial hospitals. For

WORK IN NORTH

"All hear from time to time about the settlers in our great northland. We realize the difficulties these people have to face, the obstacles they have to overcome and the hardships they have to endure. It cheers our hearts to know that the Red Cross flag flies in that vast new territory. Under that flag in the three Red Cross outposts highly skilled nurses care for the sick and injured among the brave men and women who have dared the wilderness to make new homes for themselves and their children."

"We know the Junior Red Cross, besides inspiring school children to care for their own health and that of others, also teaches them to be of service to others less fortunate than themselves. This is the finest kind of training for the citizenship we need to-day more than ever before."

"The Red Cross is a universal organization. It offers to all an opportunity to share in a most admirable form of service to suffering people. This work can be carried on only if all of us accept our share of the responsibility for its maintenance. Speaking not only as the mayor of this beautiful city but also as a Victorian who have not already done so, to contribute to the Red Cross campaign. The winter is upon us. Many people are in need. The demands upon us are heavy indeed. But let us all become members of the Red Cross and at least pay our annual fee of one dollar. Those who can give more may do so in the knowledge that the money is needed, very urgently indeed, and will be wisely expended by Fred Landsberg, the honorary treasurer of the Red Cross, known to all for his own philanthropy and wisdom."

FUNERAL NOTICE

Members of Vancouver and Quadra Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 2, G.R.E.C., are requested to assemble at the Masonic Temple, Victoria, on Tuesday, November 15 at 1:30 P.M., for the purpose of attending the funeral of our late Brother William Ernest Ditchburn.

Members of local Lodges and adjoining Brethren in good standing are invited to attend.

By order of the Worshipful Master.

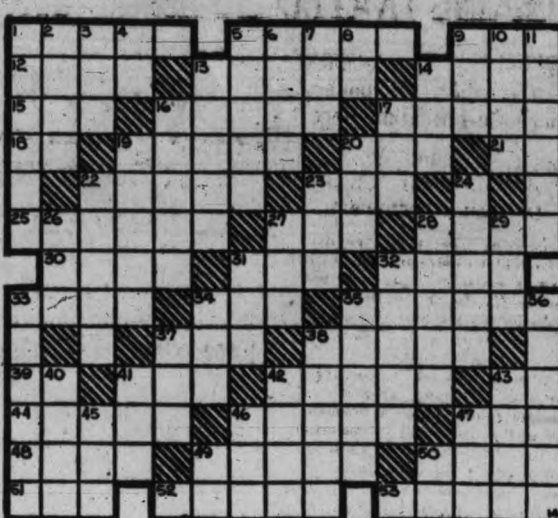

FRANCIS F. PATT, Secretary.

For Formal Effects

White calla lilies, artificial of course, placed in black bowls, are effective for decorative purposes in dining-rooms that go in for a formality that belongs to a house with traditions.

But if your home is informal, forget about black and white effects. Go in for wide couches with gay cushions, plump candles and easy chairs. Informality is much easier with which to live than formality.

TWO PICTURES
AT PLAYHOUSE

Mystery, romance, intrigue and jealousy are reported as the elements in "Man About Town," the Fox picture opening its engagement of three days at the Playhouse Theatre to-day. It brings Warner Baxter to the screen in the role of a man who is ready to die to save the woman he took away from his best friend. "Man About Town" is a story of conflicting emotions, played against a background of Washington society and all the glamour of life in the national capital. Karen Morley, who will be pleasantly remembered for her performance in "Arsene Lupin," the Barrymore brothers' picture, portrays the leading female role in "Man About Town." Also on same programme is "Woman Commands," starring Pola Negri.

BETTY NUTHALL TO RUN HOTEL

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times London.—Miss Betty Nuthall was entering the business of hotel management. For some years now whenever she has not been practicing for tennis tournaments, she has been helping her mother to run the hotel the family owns at Richmond—even to buying vegetables at Covent Garden. Now Mrs. Nuthall says that Betty is soon to have a hotel to run on her own. "Betty is a wonder at managing a house," Mrs. Nuthall said. She waved her hand around the pretty drawing-room and added "Betty even made all these curtains and loose covers—in between two tennis tournaments."

other. Among the factors which influence the extent to which the feet are out are age, stoutness, exhaustion, uneven surfaces, changes in the structure of the feet, and various diseases. There is, of course, such a thing as right-leggedness and left-leggedness, exactly as there is right-handedness and left-handedness. It was found that a greater proportion of savages showed a straight or in-toeing position than is usually seen among American college students, but the vast majority of savages tended to hold the feet in the toe-out position. This apparently is the ideal position for walking.

An angle of fifteen degrees, as formed by the two feet, seems to be the ideal angle for ordinary active walking. Rapid movements tend to lessen the width of the angle, and slower movements to widen it. Therefore, when standing the natural position would seem to be an angle of about forty-five degrees.

ITALY'S MOTOR POLICE ARE FIGHTERS

Part of the reason for the minimum of crime in Italy is due to the vigilance of the Metropolitan Military Motorcycle Police Patrol of Rome, which is a valuable fighting unit. The corps, guns ready for action, is shown in review at the seventh anniversary of its organization.

Plays Opposite Will Rogers in "Down to Earth," Which Opened This Afternoon

Back to his native Oklahoma again after filming his recent picture against various foreign locales, Will Rogers has the star role in "Down to Earth," his new Fox offering which opened last night at the Capitol Theatre. With the recital of a businessman's efforts to balance his dwindling income against his family's social ambitions and extravagance as its theme, the picture is being hailed everywhere as the most timely as well as the funniest production of the noted humorist's career.

Rogers fans will recall the hectic adventures of Pike Peters and his family abroad in "They Had to See Paris," his first talking picture. In "Down to Earth," the picture with Edwin Burke making the screen play and David Butler directing.

Also being shown on the same programme is Spencer Tracy in "The Painted Woman."

Empire Starring
English Actress

Those who visit the Empire Theatre to-day will have an opportunity of seeing what that brilliant English actress, Elizabeth Allan, looked like when she was a little girl. On the wall of a barber's shop parlor, which is one of the chief settings of "Down Our Street," is hung a big picture of a five-year-old girl, supposed to represent Maisie Collins of the story, when a child. As the part of Maisie is being played by Elizabeth Allan, she was asked by Harry Lachman, the director, if she had a photograph of herself. Miss Allan produced a snapshot which, on being enlarged, is a distinctly seen in "Down Our Street" between two pictures of her film parents, Nancy Price and Morris Harvey.

The story of "Down Our Street" is woven around the life of an East London barber, and has a strong cast including Hugh Williams, Alexander Field and Sydney Fairbrother.

ROMANO THEATRE

Two men whom the World War made actors are featured with Bebe Daniels in "The Honor of the Family," new First National release, now showing at the Romano Theatre. They are Warren Williams and Alan Mowbray. Williams was a sergeant in the A.E.F. and Mowbray was a major with the British army throughout the war period. Mowbray, in England, joined a provincial stock company playing "The Cenci" and "The Honor of the Family," which he should be a member of the Corey Stock Company, then playing the demobilization camps. Both immediately became tremendously successful and to-day are among the best known players of the English-speaking stage.

MARIAN NIXON
AT COLUMBIA

Marian Nixon, whose screen work of the past year includes important successes in "After Tomorrow" and "Amateur Daddy," makes what is heralded as her greatest single step towards stardom in her latest Fox role, that of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," now being shown at the Columbia Theatre.

Having risen to stardom in silent films, Miss Nixon's absence from the screen for two years necessitated her beginning all over again during the period just prior to the advent of talking pictures. This she did with great success. But she again for-

"Smilin' Through"
Is Again Popular

Now that Mero-Goldwyn-Mayer is sending "Smilin' Through" to the screen of the Dominion Theatre with Norma Shearer as star, those who have followed the course of this hauntingly beautiful drama are waiting eagerly to see if history will repeat itself.
Ever since Jane Cowell first brought

"Smilin' Through" to the attention of New York theatre audiences amidst thunderous applause and profuse tears, this story has been tugging at the hearts and memory of dramatic devotees.

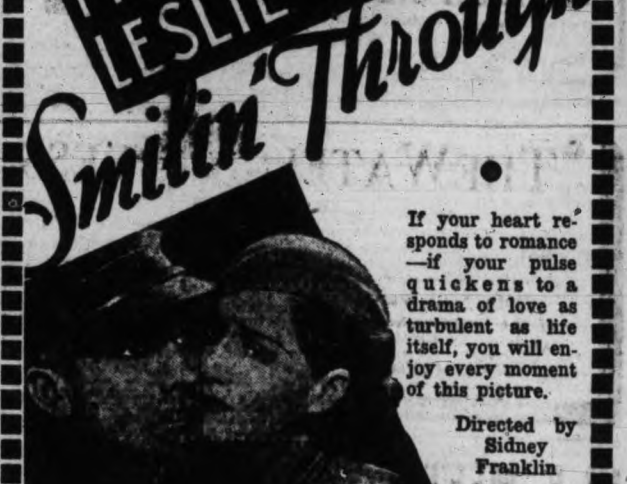

To begin with there was the surprise that followed on the heels of Miss Cowell's acting triumph when it was learned that she was one of the authors. She collaborated on the writing with Jane Murlin, noted Hollywood scenario writer, although the playbill listed the author as Edward Langdon Martin.

Then Norma Talmadge brought "Smilin' Through" to the screen as a silent film. That version brought honor not only to the star, but also to a young man who was just rising to fame as a director—Sidney Franklin. He is also the director of Miss Shearer's current talking production.

Victoria delegates returning from the tenth annual provincial Hi-Y conference in Vancouver over the weekend reported a highly successful gathering during which a great deal of the organization's business was completed.

The city was represented by Jack Fraser, Bill Oiler, Ted Chapman, Art Davies and Ken Grant. Delegates from British Columbia's twelve major high schools were present.

The conference, which started on Friday, was devoted largely to a discussion of programme and organization. The gatherings were brought to a close yesterday evening with a special church service and induction of new members at Shaggygum United Church.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Tuberculosis Veterans' Section, Canadian Legion, will hold its monthly meeting to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Charged with possession of opium, Wong Gee pleaded not guilty before Magistrate George Jay in the City Police Court this morning and was remanded to Friday.

Plans for presentation of a picture programme by Douglas Flintoff before the Victoria and District Cornish Association were postponed Saturday evening for two weeks, owing to inability of a number of members to attend through sickness.

The Army and Navy Veterans' Club staged a smoker Saturday night in honor of comrades who fell in the Great War. H. Callow presided and artists who contributed to the programme were: Major H. Watts, E. E. Hardisty, H. Sabiston, A. Sabiston, T. Wilson, R. Casser, J. Rivers, Ronald Smith and C. T. Nelson.

Steady progress of the boot and shoe industry of Canada was marked by a further increase in production during September, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics points out. The production in September amounted to 1,723,202 pairs, an increase over the preceding month of 14,848 pairs, and an increase over September, 1931, of 50,766 pairs.

Mon. R. L. Maitland, K.C., counsel for the dairymen of the Fraser Valley in their appeal to the Privy Council on the Dairy Sales Adjustment Act, and C. A. Welsh, New Westminster, chairman of the board, came over from Vancouver this morning and interviewed Premier Tomin. Upon leaving the Premier's office, Mr. Maitland said no announcement would be made at this time concerning action to be taken in the future by the dairymen.

Reeve S. Mussallem, Maple Ridge, was a caller at the Ministry of Finance today in an endeavor to raise $10,000 for unemployment relief for a municipality of 6,000, which reports 357 unemployed. A. A. Lane and J. A. Cetherwood, commissioners of Mission Village, reported 100 unemployed in their district of 1,500 people. They asked $10,000 for the loan of $10,000. Both requests were taken under consideration.

Mayor Leeming and Alderman John A. Worthington this morning had a half-hour interview with S. J. Hungerford, acting president of the Canadian National Railway, discussing especially the trees standing on C.N.R. property on Belleville Street, some of which, it is stated, have become a menace through age. Mr. Hungerford promised to investigate and determine what action was necessary to make the place safe.

The McBride Conservative Club will hold a dance in the Sons of England Hall, Broad Street, on Friday evening from 9 until 12 o'clock. Premier and Mrs. Tomin, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Twigg, M.P.P. and J. H. Beatty, M.P.P., are expected to be present. There will be a military five hundred party for those not wishing to dance, and a three-piece orchestra and best engaged for the evening. Refreshments will be served and a cordial invitation is extended to the general public.

Affairs of the newly-formed B.C. Poultry Council seem to have been smoothed out, according to word received at the Parliament Buildings from Vancouver over the week-end. The council now consists of a new chairman, M. H. Rutledge of Sarnia, with him on the board are John Hunter, secretary-treasurer of Cloverdale, T. J. Smith of Burnaby and two members from Haney, H. E. Hanwell and R. W. Holland. The council has written Hon. N. S. Loughheed asking for a meeting with the markets extension committee and this may be held next week.

Children of the British Isles will have more Canadian toys this year than ever before. During the first six months of the present fiscal year the value of toys and fancy goods sent to the United Kingdom was $31,623, as compared with $144 in the same period last year. This half-year export to the United Kingdom alone is greater than the total export to all countries in any one whole year. The greatest export hitherto in one twelve months was in the fiscal year 1930, when the amount was valued at $32,262.

Letters and printed matter for Australia and New Zealand will be dispatched from Victoria November 15, according to the Victoria Post. The mails will reach Wellington December 12 and Sydney December 17. For the same steamer, parcel post will close at 9 p.m., November 15. After the dispatch of the Makura's mails, the next mail will close at 6 p.m. December 7 for St. Niagara. This mail, however, will not reach Auckland until December 26 and Sydney December 31.

Silver production in Canada during August last amounted to 1,447,269 ounces, a decline of 20.7 per cent from the July total of 1,825,239 ounces and 6.2 per cent from the August, 1931, output of 1,542,695 ounces, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. New York quotations for silver averaged 27.986 cents an ounce as compared with 26.7 cents in July. The average price in Canadian funds was 31.966 cents an ounce, at which value the Canadian output in August was worth $462,644.

Unemployment camps are being brought into a habitable condition through the province, it was learned at the Parliament Buildings to-day. The next step will be to get the single, homeless men to leave the urban centres and go to them. This is no easy matter, as the newly-formed Fordism board is finding out. There are over 500 men in Prince George who demur at leaving that place for the camps. The problem of forcing the men to leave cities seems to be a major one to be dealt with at the moment. The board is meeting to-day in Vancouver and some decision will probably be arrived at as to what methods will be adopted.

Word was received from D. B. Prunkett, M.P., at the City Hall this morning that the Department of National Revenue will not waive the duty on movie picture apparatus which the Commonwealth Productions Limited wish to bring to Victoria for production purposes. On approximately $45,000 worth of equipment the duty runs between thirty and forty per cent, and the department claim it must be paid. Mayor Leeming had supported the application of the exemption since they are attempting to start an industry which would be beneficial to the community as a whole.

STRANGER WAS FOUND IN BED

James Bay Couple, Awakened Early in Morning, Finds Unwelcomed Visitor

Charles Bland Committed For Trial on Charge of Forcible Entry

How the residents of a house in James Bay awoke at 3 o'clock in the morning to hear a noise which they thought to be that of burglars was related in the City Police Court this morning when preliminary hearing of Charles Bland on a charge of forcible entry was heard. The accused was committed for trial.

Louis Impey, 328 Kingston Street, told the court his wife had awakened him early on the morning of November 3, when he heard his wife talking and noises in a front bedroom, which should have been unoccupied. They called the police, and when Constable W. Harper arrived he opened the bedroom door, which was fastened on the outside, and discovered Bland in bed. He had his clothes on, but his boots were off.

Bland explained the unusual situation by stating he had been drinking and made a mistake in the house. He had not disturbed anything in the house, other than made plenty of noise by talking, which was not the act of a man intending to do harm.

"You're liable to get shot walking into people's houses that way," said Magistrate Jay in ordering the commitment.

LEGALITY OF VOTE QUERIED

City Council May Not Have Power to Submit Sweep-stake Referendum

With prospects of an attempt to secure a civic referendum on the question of legalized sweepstakes looming to-day, City Hall officials were wrestling with the question of whether or not the city has legal authority to take such a vote.

The voters of Vancouver, it is reported, will be asked to cast ballots on the question in December. Alderman R. T. Williams has announced he will endeavor to secure City Council support for a referendum on the issue in Victoria.

The idea of the sweep vote, it is explained, is merely to get an expression of opinion from the people as to whether they favor Canada going in for the sweepstake business in a legal manner or not. Neither the city council of Victoria or Vancouver could take any action as the result of such a vote, other than to forward the result to Ottawa, as a suggestion that the Criminal Code be amended.

Perusal of the Municipal Act this morning, however, indicated that the City Council may not have power to submit the referendum. The act gives authority to the council to take votes on questions which affect the municipality and with which the council has power to deal. "The point at issue is whether the matters with which the council has power to deal can be construed to include sweepstakes. Since the Criminal Code is federal legislation, some officials at the City Hall believe the council has no power to submit the referendum.

ACT IS IN FORCE, SAYS MAGISTRATE

An adjournment sine die asked by the defendant owing to the fact that the constitutionality of the Deserted Wives' Maintenance Act had been attacked was refused W. A. Laming by Magistrate George Jay in the City Police Court this morning.

He secured an adjournment for one week on other grounds. Laming handed the Magistrate a newspaper item in which the argument over the act was reported and requested the adjournment until it was cleared up. It was pointed out to him that the act is still in force.

Many friends, including Captain C. P. L. Money and J. C. Rivers, representing the Army and Navy Veterans, attended the funeral of William John Smith on Saturday afternoon. Rev. James Hood conducted the service. Interment was in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery. The following all paid City Rangers of the A.O.F. acted as pallbearers: J. C. Johnson, H. C. Wiffen, L. Fletcher, C. O. Johnson, J. Williams and W. J. Smith. The A.O.F. service at the graveside was conducted by P.D.C.R. Bro. W. P. Fullerton. At the close the Foresters' "Good Night" hymn was sung.

ERIC MARSHALL

Henry Brethour of Sidney celebrated his birthday yesterday. He was born in the township of Georgina, County York, Ontario, in 1853, and came to British Columbia with his parents in 1873 and settled in North Saanich. Here he helped his father to make a home in the forest and still resides on the old homestead. The first school in North Saanich was taught by Mr. Brethour. He then decided to return to Ontario to complete his education, later returning to his school duties again, this time teaching half a day in the schoolhouse on the Cross Road and the other half in the Institute, two miles away and walking through the woods. Later he acted as secretary of the school board for twenty-five years, until he became a member of the Sidney School Board. In 1891 Mr. Brethour was a promoter of the Sidney townsite and construction of the Victoria and Saanich Railway, of which he was one of the directors.

He has also served as secretary of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society and has been a member of the Victoria and Saanich Railway, of which he was one of the directors.

Mr. Brethour's one hobby is books, and his greatest pleasure is sharing them with his friends. Four generations of his family helped to celebrate his birthday.

Mr. Tripp, who is general superintendent of the Vancouver Island division of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company Limited, is celebrating his birthday to-day. Mr. Tripp's advice was an important factor in selection of Jordan River as the site of the company's principal power development on Vancouver Island. Engineers regard him as one of the outstanding electrical engineers of the Pacific Coast. In addition to having charge of power generation, Mr. Tripp is responsible for maintenance of the Island distribution system and also for operation of the street railway in Victoria. Mr. Tripp resides at 1684 Yale Street.

A well-known transportation man of Victoria celebrating his birthday to-day is Eric F. Marshall, city freight and passenger agent for the A.T. & P. Co., 1000 Yates Street. Mr. Marshall has been in Victoria twenty years. He was born in London and before coming to Canada served in the Island distributive system and also for operation of the street railway in Victoria. Mr. Marshall resides at 1684 Yale Street.

PIONEER'S ASHES ARE INTERRED

In the presence of relatives and a large gathering of sorrowing friends, the ashes of Pioneer Mrs. Mary Alice Wail, 748 Herald Street, were interred yesterday afternoon at the family residence, 1132 Johnson Street, following a long illness.

The late Mrs. Wail was born in Alton, Scotland, on September 23, 1855, and came to Canada when fourteen years of age. For a number of years she resided at St. Mary's, Ontario, which she always liked to call her home town, and Stratford. From the latter place she came to Victoria via the Southern Pacific Railway to San Francisco, and thence to Victoria by the steamer George W. Elder, arriving here on May 24, 1882. She stayed at the old Burton Hotel, Yates Street, to await the departure of the Western Slope for Yale, where she rejoined her husband. They later returned to Victoria to make their home, and she had resided here ever since.

She is survived by two sons, Fred, at home and Hope, Campbell River, both of whom were with her when she passed away, and two grandsons, Harold and Donald of Campbell River.

The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3:15 o'clock from Thompson Funeral Parlors to Ross Bay cemetery.

Gordon Fields will speak to the Y.M.C.A. Quad Club to-morrow evening on "The Most Interesting Topic of the Last Week" at the club's gathering in the "Y." Other items of interest are included in the agenda for the evening.

SPECIAL EFFORT TO BRING TRAVEL

F. W. Hull of Seattle and L. M. Davenport of Spokane Urge Co-operation Here

Publicity Needed to Divert Movement From Chicago to Pacific Northwest

Asserting that a big publicity drive will be necessary during the coming season to bring more people to the Pacific Northwest because of counter attractions such as the Chicago world's fair, F. W. Hull, managing director of the Olympic Hotel at Seattle, and Louis M. Davenport, proprietor of the Davenport Hotel in Spokane, are in the city urging co-operation in the advertising campaign which will shortly be inaugurated to divert travel this way.

"From the inquiries that are being made the prospects for next season's tourist business seem good," said Mr. Hull, "but we have got to make a special effort to bring people here with the big exposition opening in Chicago in June as the magnet."

"We propose to continue our publicity campaign with renewed vigor in Seattle and we are seeking the co-operation of Portland, Tacoma, Spokane, Victoria and Vancouver."

Mr. Davenport said his views were reflected by Mr. Hull. "We in Spokane realize the need of publicity in order to keep people moving to the northwest, and we are throwing our whole weight into the movement to bring greater travel in this direction," he said.

Mr. Davenport has just returned from an extended visit to the eastern states, and everybody down there is talking Chicago, he said.

Active and the right kind of publicity was essential to divert part of this travel from the middle states to the Pacific northwest, he believed. "We are both great boosters for Victoria, and do effective work in directing travel to British Columbia cities."

The two well-known hotelmen are here with their wives to spend a short holiday, and at the same time they are preaching the gospel of publicity. They are at the Empress Hotel, and plan to spend several days in the city.

JONES CUTS MOTOR RATE

Under Economy Move, Government Employees to Get 8 Cents Mile For Cars

Under new economy orders at the Parliament Buildings issued by Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, motor car allowance for gasoline, oil, tires and general wear has been cut to eight cents a mile for all civil servants and other government employees, it was announced to-day.

Up until now the government has been paying its employees at the rate of ten cents a mile when they used their cars on public business. Protest had been made to the government about its automobile allowance rate by a number of private firms, who have been allowing their salesmen and other employees driving cars at the rate of only six cents a mile, including depreciation as well as running costs.

Other economy measures reported to-day included action by the Department of Public Works to curb excess mileage charged to the government, and also work on public business, and the government cars. Intimations have gone out to the departments, also, that where it is necessary to buy a government car, only the cheapest make to meet the requirements is to be purchased in place of large-size, powerful cars.

Changes in the general policy of transportation allowances for government employees when travelling were also reported under consideration to-day. Under these the government would pay only the minimum first class transportation and upper berth fare, so that when steamers or other express accommodation is taken by employees on boats or trains, they would pay the difference in the cost themselves. It was announced that the order has already been issued prohibiting private cars between their homes and depots and hotels from being included in the expense accounts of civil servants.

U.S. Pro Golfers Off on Their Annual Winter Campaign

England Finds Another Heavyweight Hope in Jack Doyle

Nineteen-year-old Irishman Figured Threat for World Title

With the staging of the fifty-four hole medal play tournament at Washington over the week-end, for a prize of $2,500, the annual winter tournament for United States professional golfers was under way. The trail now leads to Pinehurst on the Atlantic coast where the mid-south open, a medal play event, will be held to-morrow and Wednesday. Then the gang, including such world famous players as Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen, Les Diegel and Mac Smith, will move along to Miami where one of the two important events of the winter season will be staged. This season the Miami-Biltmore match play will carry $10,000 in prize and will take place November 23 to 25.

From the east the troupe of golfers will sail forth to the west coast, meeting at San Francisco December 7-12 for the San Francisco open and a few more thousands. Following this match by only a few days will come the winter season, the Agua Caliente open, with prizes totaling $10,000. This will be staged at the Mexican city January 11-14.

From Mexico the tour will swing back east, taking in the Phoenix open, medal play, early in the winter, a few big tournaments in Texas and other states in the south, and finally back into Florida again. The season will finish with the big North-South open at Pinehurst in March.

England has once more found a world champion heavyweight fighter, on paper. This time his name is Jack Doyle. For forty years or more the British have been trying to find a scrapper capable of lifting the crown. Forty years ago their best bet was Charley Mitchell, but he failed miserably when matched with the great John L. Sullivan.

In later years the British champion was Bombardeer Wells, but he did not get far. Then it was Joe Beckett, who would polish off that French dancing master, Carpentier, and then visit the United States.

All London turned out to see his polishing act. But the only polishing poor Joe did was to the ring. It was the famous contest in which two blows were struck. Carpentier hit Joe and Joe hit the floor.

Then there arose a new champion in the person of Phil Scott. He got as far as the challenge to Carpentier, but he failed miserably when he fought him. Then the fans insisted he meet Pettifer.

In the battle the first round was all Pettifer's. He hit Doyle's stomach around in circles, and hit the Irishman on the chin so often that he didn't know whether he was going to bed or back to Ireland when the bell rang.

But read what the London sports writers had to say of the second round: "A fighting monster was Doyle, his teeth clenched, his eyes awesome in the viciousness with which he roared fire. He shot out a left-handed blow to the jaw as if released from a giant catapult."

Naturally, a guy like that is bound to win the fight.

Doyle will soon get a shot at Pettifer. If he wins, he'll visit the United States and stand howling for a fight outside Sharkey's door.

S. WELLINGTON BEAT SOUTHEND

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, Nov. 14.—South Wellington defeated Southend United on Saturday afternoon by 2 to 0 in a Mid-Island League game. The game was evenly contested for fifteen minutes until Gurgovitch scored with a fine drive. End-to-end play was the order, with Wellington having the edge. The second half was dull and uninteresting and Southend was seldom dangerous. In the last minute of the game Bullock scored his team's second counter.

NAVY WINS TO TAKE FOSTER'S IN SENIOR RUGBY LEAD

Sailors Smash Through Oak Bay Wanderers for 11 to 0 Victory

Tars Second Team Wins; College and Wanderers Intermediate Victors

Navy rugger, husky bluejackets who last year won first half honors, strode into the lead in the Senior A League Saturday when they walloped the Wanderers 11 to 0 in their first appearance of the season at the Royal Athletic Park. The verdict put them at the top of the league, with the Scottish and the Gunners tied in second place with a draw apiece to their credit.

If the Senior B division, Navy players again came through, defeating the Canadian Scottish 6 to 3 at the new Navy grounds, while in the intermediate section Victoria College and Oak Bay Wanderers took their opening fixtures from the Fifth Brigade and Scottish by scores of 3 to 0 and 6 to 0 respectively.

Navy Senior A players, considerably heavier and more powerful than the Wanderers, who went through the game a smart kick. The Wanderers, who were a little out of sync in their opening game, were overpowered by the Navy's powerful forward line.

The Navy's forward line, which was a real powerhouse, was the key to their victory. They broke through the Wanderers' defense in the first half and never looked back.

The Wanderers' defense was completely overwhelmed by the Navy's attack. They were unable to stop the Navy's powerful forwards from scoring repeatedly.

The Navy's victory was a well-deserved one. They played a clean, powerful game and showed that they were the team to watch in the Senior A League.

The Wanderers' defeat was a disappointing one. They were out of sync and their defense was completely overwhelmed by the Navy's attack.

The Scottish and the Gunners, who were tied in second place, played a more even game. They were unable to break through the Navy's defense, but they also did not get overhauled.

The Canadian Scottish, who played the Navy, were completely out of sync. They were unable to score and were overpowered by the Navy's attack.

The Victoria College and Oak Bay Wanderers, who played in the intermediate section, also had a successful day. They both won their opening fixtures.

The Navy's victory was a significant one. It showed that they were the team to watch in the Senior A League and that they were capable of playing a clean, powerful game.

RETAINS TITLE

Wray, E. Symons, McGregor, A. D. King, G. Campbell, Plant and Hood.

Navy B team wins. While their senior team was knocking out a win over the Wanderers, Navy "B" players gained a 6 to 3 victory over the Canadian Scottish in the only Second Division match of the day. Illness among the teams prevented other fixtures.

It was very much a forwards game as the bluejackets fought the Highlanders. Beech, Navy fullback, turned in a good performance, stopping several dangerous rushes by the Highlanders. Stark opened the scoring for the cismen when he picked up and raced over in the first half. Before the interval the sailors had equalized on a forward rush which carried two or three of their men over the line onto the ball.

Following the rest period Scottish dominated most of the play. However, the tars broke away on a smart rush and carried the ball over for the deciding try. No converts were made.

The Highlanders played hard for the rest of the fixture, but could not crash their way across. The game was rather ragged. Gray refereed.

COLLEGE VICTORY. Victoria College intermediates opened their season with a close 3 to 0 victory over a weakened Fifth Brigade squad at Victoria High School. The only score came in the second period, when Bill Whittier went over from a line-out.

The students had the edge on play against the Blues, but they started with eleven and gradually built up their team to fourteen before it closed. E. A. Walls refereed the fixture, which was spoiled by ground conditions.

In the other league match of the day, Oak Bay Wanderers intermediates gained a good 5 to 0 verdict over the Canadian Scottish in a forwards game at Oak Bay Park.

Play swung from one end of the field to the other in the opening half, with neither squad getting over.

Early in the second half Gornall completed a Wanderers backfield move, to score. The try was not converted. Just before the final whistle Allen kicked a penalty goal when the Wanderers played offside to close the scoring.

Six Counters Come Off Toe of McRae In St. Mirren Win

Scottish Forward Gives Outstanding Performance in Club's 7-to-1 Victory Over Cowdenbeath; Rangers' Decisive Win Over Morton Gives Them Two-point Lead at Head of First Division; Aston Villa and Everton Stage Thrilling Exhibition in Feature English Match

Glasgow, Scotland, Nov. 14.—Glasgow Rangers came out of the week-end Scottish Football League scramble with a clear lead of two points in the first division. They defeated Morton 6 to 1.

Dull weather and greasy fields slowed play in most games but Rangers forwards had little difficulty in piling up a big lead. English, Meiklejohn, Marshall, McPhail, Fleming and Smith scored for the leaders, while Lyle got Morton's single tally.

Celtic stayed in second place by defeating East Stirling, 3 to 0. A. Thomson scored all the goals. Aberdeen in third place played a tough game against Pakir and lost 2 to 0. Gill and Dougal were the goal getters.

McRae, St. Mirren, boosted his scoring total by getting six goals in the game against Cowdenbeath. Knox got the seventh, while Stew scored for Cowdenbeath.

Hibernians stayed out in front of the Second Division with an 8 to 2 victory over Arndale. Queen of the South remained in second place, although only tying Dumbarton 1 to 1.

London, Nov. 14.—Week-end games left Arsenal consolidated at the top of the First Division of the English football league after a 1 to 0 victory over Newcastle United, while Aston Villa, leader three weeks ago, could do no better than tie Everton at 3 to 3. Arsenal's win put the team two points up on the Villa.

Sixty thousand persons braved a cold drizzling rain to watch the Gunners gain their single-point triumph. Newcastle's goal was threatened right at the start as Hulme, Bastin, James and Coleman bore in for shots. Then Coleman, leading Arsenal's brilliant attack, with the cross bar with a hard shot.

Hulme scored the only goal of the game soon after he put his team one up at the interval. Gunners contented themselves with a sterling exhibition of defensive play throughout the second half and held their opponents scoreless.

Derby County remained at third place, winning easily 4 to 1 from Bolton Wanderers, while Leeds United, unbeaten in the last eleven starts, was held to a 0-0 draw by Leicester City and dropped from fourth to sixth place. Huddersfield Town, with a 2 to 0 victory over Birmingham, to fourth place, while W. G. Brown, Albion beat Chelsea 3 to 2 to land in fifth.

Stoke City remained in the lead of the Second Division despite loss of their first away game to Southampton, holders of twelfth position, who retained an unbeaten home record. Coates scored the only goal of the game in the first half.

Brentford, only unbeaten team in the league and leader of the Third Division, southern section, defeated Watford 2 to 1. Robson scored before half time and Wooliscroft after. Then in the last half-minute Bain thanged a terrific drive for Watford.

Chester continued to lead the Northern Division with a fine win over Barnsley, 3 to 0.

Wrestling fans who attended the card at the Tullium gymnasium on Saturday evening got plenty of entertainment even although it was not what might be called good wrestling. In the main event Des Anderson, Seattle middleweight, took two out of three falls from Carl Masung, Yakima. The double semi-windup saw Frank Draper, Vancouver, take two out of three falls from "Cyclone" Burns, Minneapolis and "Pat" Griffin gain the odd fall in three from Johnny Peary.

It was in the two semi-windup bouts that the fans saw the greater part of the action. Burns seemed unable to get along with Referee Al Sparks, Salt Lake City heavyweight, right from the start. In the first round Burns hit Draper with the closed fist and received a sock in return from Sparks. A number of times during the bout the two wrestlers and referee were mixed up in a tangle in the ring.

Burns took the first fall with a Boston Crab. Draper was awarded the second on a foul Burns hitting with the fist, and the Vancouver grappler won the bout in the fourth with a fall following a reverse body slam.

Griffin and Peary engaged in a real grudge match. At one time during the bout Griffin knocked Peary from the ring and jumped on him and then Peary took a hand in the struggle and just when Chief of Police Heatley was about to take the three broke and the bout resumed inside the ropes. Griffin took the first fall. Peary the second and Griffin the third.

In his bout with Masung Anderson gained the first fall in the second with a series of flying wrist locks, shoulder butts and body press. Masung squared matters in the third following a flying tackle, while Anderson took the "winning" fall in the fourth with an airplane spin and body slam.

The main event was refereed by Fred Bissenden.

CLOVER II IS STAKE WINNER

Scores Upset Victory in $10,000 Added Riggs Handicap at Pimlico

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 14.—Before a crowd of 12,000 who braved the wintry winds, White Clover II came from behind on the home stretch, Saturday, to beat Mate by half a length and win the $10,000 added Riggs Handicap in the feature event of the Pimlico's closing day.

St. Brideaux, from the Greentree Stables, trailed Mate by two lengths to win third money. The results was a mild upset, since the entries included, in addition to Mate, such stars as Fred Avon, Dark Secret and Blenheim. It was the first victory for the William Dupont Jr. gelding St. Brideaux.

Backers of the winner collected $12.40 for each $2 win ticket. During the race, White Clover II, which was run over a mile and a half course, St. Brideaux pulled to the fore and at the mile post gave promise of running handily. The Greentree Stable entry tired rapidly, however, and A. C. Costwick's Mate made a bid.

White Clover II, which had at no time been among the leaders, then tumbled ahead. And the closing moments were a bitter battle between the two—White Clover II and Mate.

Decks Cleared For Start of Canadian Football Play-offs

Sarnia To Engage Colorful Hamilton Tigers On Saturday

Winner Will Battle University of Toronto's Champion Intercollegiate Squad For Right to Oppose Regina Roughriders in Canadian Final; Regina Will Be Handicapped by Three Weeks' Lay-off; Sarnia Suffered Unexpected Defeat at Hands of Balmy Beach Saturday

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Of close to thirty football teams that started hustling along the titular runways in a half dozen provinces two months ago, just four were left to-day with a chance to win the Canadian championship.

It was a somewhat bedraggled quartette, too. Last of the title contenders to take it on the chin, Sarnia Imperials dropped an unimportant O.R.F.U. fixture to Balmy Beach here Saturday to complete a picture of beaten champs and make the play-down campaign more wide open than in several years.

While Imperials were losing 7 to 3 to the Bechers, Hamilton Tigers humbled a fighting Argonaut squad, 19 to 1, and swept into the playdowns on the Big Four bandwagon, University of Toronto's intercollegiate champions, third of the eastern titlists, cuffed down the tricolor of Queen's, 21 to 2, as a finishing touch to their college campaign. Only the Bengals were in serious combat. They had to defeat Argos to win the Big Four without a play-off. Before 8,000 home-town fans who braved a chill wind and threat of rain to see the clash, they thoroughly outplayed the Sculiers. Frank Turville, leading scorer in eastern football, booted nine single points and ran five yards for a touchdown but couldn't hold his position and make the greatest individual contribution towards the triumph.

SARNIA PLAYS HAMILTON
Sarnia stands qualified to meet Hamilton, next Saturday in the eastern semi-final at Hamilton.

Montreal Winged Wheelers, whose only hopes rested on the Argos invasion, easily disposed of Ottawa Roughriders, 35 to 1. Defeated by Tigers and Argos blocked Montreal's bid for a second straight championship.

The title already lost, Western Mustangs concluded the year's work by outscoring McGill 13 to 8 at London.

Out in the west Regina Roughriders face an annual battle with their toughest foe—time. It will be three weeks before the eastern champions are ready to take on the perennial challengers from Saskatchewan.

LAKE BOYS TRIM MT. TOLMIE TEAM
Shawnigan Rugger Troupe University School 33 to 0 Up-island

Shawnigan Lake School's smart first team ran riot on Saturday to crush the University School under a 33 to 0 defeat in a game at the lake grounds.

Considering that there had been thirty-six hours of almost continual rain, the ground was in fair condition. However, it was wet enough to make handling difficult. Rain fell at intervals during the game. Shawnigan were quickly into their stride and never allowed their opponents to settle down. Soon after the start Dyson started a passing movement and Lake backing up well, went over between the posts. Robertson converted this try. Good passing by the outsiders saw Covertan over for an unconquered try. The University forwards dribbled down the field, but Dawson cleared. Again Shawnigan attacked and from a scrum near the line Bradford scored a try which Robertson converted. Shawnigan continued to press and tries were scored by Bradford and Skrimshire, the conversion points not being added. Half time score was 19 to 0.

University School started off well and looked dangerous for a time following the interval. Shawnigan was forced to touch down, but when attacking again, Mackie kicked up the field and following up was tackled on the line, a penalty try being awarded. The last try was scored by the full-back's head, scored again. Robertson converted this try. University rallied for a short while but could not finish their attack. The last try was scored by Robertson, who ran round the blind side of a five-yard scrum. This try was not converted. University then put up a strong defence and no further tries were scored.

SWIM GROUP IS ORGANIZED

Leaders at Y.M.C.A. Form Corps to Coach Various Groups in Association

Out to give the membership a more specialized series of coaching periods in swimming and diving, the Y.M.C.A. has formed a new swimming leaders corps composed of a number of the senior club members.

The squad will meet every Monday evening to discuss methods of coaching and instructing those less proficient in the water. This evening Archie McKinnon, physical director and head swimming coach, will speak to the boys on the leg thrash in the crawl. He will touch upon other phases of the stroke and should give the members several helpful hints in imparting knowledge of the game to others.

Following are the leaders, the groups they will coach and the times at which they will be available.

Harold Rose, junior school, Monday and Thursday from 5.15 to 5.45.

Chris McRae, young men's class, Tuesday, 9.30 to 10.

In addition to coaching swimming and diving, the club hopes to go in for life-saving as well as various swimming competitions under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A.

TONY WILL NOT MEET McLARNIN

New York, Nov. 14.—Jimmy McLarnin, the heavy-fisted Canadian welterweight from Vancouver, will not get the chance to meet the world lightweight champion, Tony Cansoneri.

The cocky Cansoneri, who has been aching for a crack at the cherub-faced Irishman because he did not like the handspings Jimmy turns in the squared circle after each victory—he was doing it too regularly to suit him. Cansoneri said—has been persuaded to leave McLarnin alone.

Tony had declared he was willing to spot McLarnin ten pounds in weight in a bout in Madison Square Garden within the next six weeks or so. He felt sure he could stop the Vancouverite's victory handspings, he said. But, men more wise in ring lore pointed out to Tony no man has spotted McLarnin weight and beat him.

Innocuous defeat has always been the fate of such ambitious ones, and they emphasized the likelihood Cansoneri's fate would be the same at the befell Al Singer and others, who fell quickly before the dynamite-laden mitts of James.

Cansoneri has accepted the advice of his handlers, and instead of risking a decisive walloping from McLarnin, left to-day for a holiday. Afterwards he will probably sign up to meet Sammy Fuller or Johnny Jadick, outstanding lightweight.

Meanwhile, Jimmy, in Vancouver, must look elsewhere for opposition. He flew to the Pacific Coast city following his recent victory over veteran Benny Leonard. Trains were too slow, it was said, to transport him back to the old home town.

Saturday, following the final the players will gather for a dinner in the clubhouse where prizes will be presented. All competitors are invited to the dinner.

WINS TOURNEY

Washington, Nov. 14.—Horton Smith, the "Joplin Ghost," yesterday shouted himself to 99 and winner's part of $700 in the United States "National Capital" open golf tournament at Kenwood country club. With 216 he was six strokes over perfect figures for the fifty-four holes. Smith's nearest competitor was Densmore Shute, Cleveland, who scored 218.

WINDSOR WINS OVER DETROIT

Defeat Olympics 3 to 1 in Opening of Minor Hockey at Motor City

London Ties and Cleveland in 3 to 3 Tie; Syracuse Whips Buffalo 1 to 0

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 14.—Windsor's hardy Bulldogs outskated Detroit Olympics here to-night to win 3 to 1 in the opening International hockey game on Detroit ice, before 11,000 spectators.

Norm Smith, Bulldog goalie, turned back almost everything the Olympics had to offer, and the Windsor defence proved far superior to Detroit's defence line of Carbol and Taylor.

Desse Roche scored the first Bulldog goal midway in the first period. In the second period Cormier broke away for a lonehanded goal. In this third period Earl Roche beat Clark from close in.

Detroit's only goal came in the final minutes of the game when Moffatt, fleet wingman, scored on a lone rush.

Cleveland, Nov. 14.—Cleveland Indians yesterday evening opened their home campaign in the International League here by holding London Tecumsehs to a 3 to 3 overtime tie in a fast-paced game. It was the second straight tie for the Indians who opened the season Friday night at Windsor. Each team scored one goal in every one of the regulation periods, but neither could win over a winning counter in the ten-minute overtime session. Bern Brophy, Alex Gray and McFarlane scored for the Indians, and Mike Niville, Harold Hicks and C. Garigan for London.

Syracuse, N.Y., Nov. 14.—Syracuse opened its hockey season in the International League with a 1 to 0 victory over Buffalo, 1931-32 champions, Saturday night in an overtime battle.

Play lagged at times through the regular time, but fast play as the teams came out for the ten-minute session. The Stars annexed the game on a shot by Freddy Robertson on a rebound from Russ Bell.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 14.—Springfield defeated New Haven 4 to 3 yesterday evening in the opening game of the Canadian-American Hockey League season. All the scoring was done in the first two periods.

Gorton Pettinger and Regan especially stood out in repulsing the attacks of the Eagle forwards.

Pettinger, former Regina pat ace, scored two brilliant goals himself and assisted Desjardins with another.

On Saturday night Springfield suffered a 5 to 4 defeat on their home ice at the hands of Boston Bruin Cubs.

Wheat Pit Wavers,
Reflecting Export
Trade Uncertainty

Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—The wheat market wavered to-day, reflecting uncertainty in export trade. Traders appeared to be waiting for a more general improvement in outside business.

The close was 1/4 to 1/2 lower than Saturday's final figures.

November finished 1/4 down at 47 1/2, while December at 46 1/2; May at 51 1/2, and July at 52 1/2, each declined 1/2 cent.

An early advance was made on purely bullish sentiment with Chicago furnishing the leadership. Later, when it was found practically no export trade had been worked, prices sagged.

Liverpool reported a firm market as the result of dearer Argentine and Canadian offers but the amount of actual export business was limited.

The market closed 1/4 to 1/2 higher. Buenos Aires was 1/4 to 1/2 higher.

World shipments for last week totaled 14,000,000 bushels, cleared from all sources. Of this amount 9,500,000 bushels were shipped from North America, mostly from Canada. Supplies on ocean passage to Europe increased about 4,000,000 bushels.

Deliveries of wheat from farmers in the three prairie provinces to country elevators during the twenty-four-hour period totaled 2,337,000 bushels.

Cash interest in wheat was limited with spreads generally unchanged. Coarse grain trade was indifferent.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—Wheat—Opening prices were unchanged to 1/4 lower to-day but the market turned strong, based on strength in Chicago with buying here. This encouraged locals to buy and prices were forced about 1/4 above the close Saturday, but there was no export business worked over the week-end. Nothing came in this morning and during the last hour when early buyers were endeavoring to liquidate to take profits, it was found there were few buyers and the market slipped away easily, getting well under the close on Saturday.

Liverpool closed firm, but it meant little or nothing in so far as new business was concerned. The Canadian visible decreased 1,347,000 and the United States visible decreased 276,000 bushels. On passage supplies increased 4,192,000 bushels, which does not indicate an urgent demand. Broomhall stated that a food scarcity continues to be indicated in Russia, with the new acreage to wheat 5,000,000 below a year ago, while rice acreage is about unchanged.

In the local cash wheat market there was a slow demand with very little changing hands. Spreads were all about unchanged. The weather in Argentina was reported as unsettled with some showers.

Winnipeg futures closed 1/4 to 1/2 lower.

Coarse grains—These markets were quiet and rather featureless. No export business confirmed or reported.

Oats closed 1/4 up to unchanged barley 1/4 to 1/2 higher and rye unchanged to 1/4 lower. Flax closed 1/2 lower to 1/4 lower on Winnipeg.

The Tragic End to a Gilded Youth's Career Emphasizes Fact That Money Is Often a Curse Than a Blessing—Yet Poor People Who Can't Give Their Children Wealth That Would Ruin Them Feel That They Have Failed As Parents

THE PAPERS have recently been full of the pathetic history of a poor little millionaire boy who at twenty years of age had run the whole gamut of life and experience and was burned out and exhausted, mentally and physically. Before he had even arrived at man's estate he had been married. He had been a father. He had been divorced and married again, and died either by his own hand or those of his drunken companions.

Many fathers and mothers who read this tragic story must have been less regretful that they did not have fortunes to bestow upon their children, and have realized that money is often a curse than a blessing to the young.

One of the strange vagaries of human nature is that all parents know this, yet none are willing to apply it to their own children. A thousand times they have seen rich girls married for their money by fortune hunters who mistreated them and broke their hearts. A thousand times they have seen the sons of rich men grow up idle and purposeless and develop into drunkards and wasters and spenders. A thousand times they have seen youngsters throw away in wanton dissipation, that wrecked them, body and soul, the money that their parents had toiled for a lifetime to earn.

Yet in spite of seeing the baneful influence that money has on other people's children, most fathers and mothers' one desire is to lavish wealth on their children, and to leave them a fortune when they die, and to this end they toil and strive and sacrifice all the best years of their lives. And when they fail to give their children the money that would ruin them, they feel that they have failed as parents.

Nothing is more common than to hear poor parents bawling that they have been able to do nothing for their children and that they have nothing to give them. Yet these same parents have given their children often enough peaceful and happy homes and the personal love and care and close daily association of a mother and father, and these are frequently blessings that millionaire parents cannot give their children from the very nature of their circumstances.

And, above all, poor parents give their children the necessity of developing their talents and making something of themselves. Someone once said to a famous self-made man: "You have given your son every advantage in the world." "Yes," replied the father, "every advantage except the greatest advantage of all. Poverty."

Every mother who cradles her babes on her breast and who makes her arms a refuge to them to which they flee in every time of childish troubles gives her children something that no high-paid nurse or governess can give them. Every man who takes his boys fishing and helps them build camps and chums with them gives them something far more valuable than the cheques a rich father writes for his boys whom he has been too busy to even get acquainted with.

As we grow older we grow more avaricious, but when we are very young money and the things money buys are not a substitute for a real father and mother.

The fathers and mothers who so lament that they have no money to give their children may also take comfort from the fact that practically every man who occupies a position of power and influence, or who is rich himself at middle age, was a poor boy. Of course, there are a few exceptions of rich men's sons who have made good, and a very few fortunes that have lasted beyond the second generation, but these exceptions are so rare that you could almost count them on your fingers and toes.

Ninety-nine times out of a hundred, maybe more than that, the rich man's son is a playboy whose greatest exploits are on the golf links. Or else he is an incompetent who dabbles in this thing and that and never makes good at anything. Possibly he has just as much intelligence as the poor boy, but he has lacked the spirit and the will to goad him on that necessity gives. He has lacked the strength and stamina, the moral muscle, if you like, that the boy develops who knows that he must fight his own way, and who cannot give up because that means defeat.

And the one thing that money buys above all else is temptation. Every rich boy is the predestined victim of a horde of conscienceless men and women who try to drag him down into the abyss of drunken debauchery where they can most easily prey upon him. They flatter him, they cajole him, they play upon his every passion. Beautiful gold diggers rob him and blackmail him and marry him and besmirch his character and his name with scandal. Wiser than his years, stronger than most, must be the young millionaire who escapes unscathed through the pitfalls that are laid for the youth with money.

And, finally, let poor parents rest assured that there is truth in the old axiom that you cannot purchase happiness with money, not even for your children. The poor girl who is in business has more dates, more fun, more interest in life and a better chance to marry than the idle rich girl. Statistics show that there are more old maids among millionairesses than among any other class of women.

And the man who makes his own fortune gets a million times more kick out of it than he would out of inheriting a billion. DOROTHY DIX. Copyright by Public Ledger

Exploring South America

I feel the spirit of adventure, and I say to you: "How about an airplane journey somewhere? Would you like to go to South America?"

Plan of our trip around South America

Being good-natured and liking adventure, you answer "Yes" to both questions. We lose no time in searching out our pilot, Banty Rogers, and our trusty airplane.

Banty is always ready for something new. With great care, he goes over the airplane and checks up on all details. We lay in a supply of food and water, and rise into the sky.

At length we pass over Florida, and head southeastward. Below us are dozens of islands, which belong to the Bahamas group. I point out Watling's Island, which is believed to be the first land found by Columbus in 1492.

We also sight Cuba and Haiti before we cross the Caribbean Sea and reach the shore of Venezuela.

Below us we see the city of Caracas, capital of the republic. The president lives there, and it is the place where men meet to make laws.

The name of "Venezuela" means "Little Venice," and was given to the country in early days because an Indian village near the coast was built on stilts, stretching out over the water.

We see mountain slopes covered by dense forests; and we also observe great grass-covered plains. Venezuela is larger than Germany and Great Britain combined, but it does not contain so many people as Berlin. The greater part of the citizens are of mixed blood—Spanish, Indian and negro.

In the forests below us dwell monkeys of six kinds, and I remind you that South American monkeys use their tails to hold to tree limbs. African monkeys cannot perform that trick.

Wild dogs live in Venezuela. Pumas and jaguars are among the wild beasts which people must guard against when they pass through the jungle; but we are above the jungle, safe from harm of that kind. If we were to land, we should find the weather very hot; but we are high in the air, and as cool as we could wish.

Uncle Ray

Kansas City, Nov. 14 (Associated Press).—Hon. Robert Weir, Canadian Minister of Agriculture, told a luncheon gathering at the American Royal Livestock and Horse Show here Saturday that "agriculture is one of the most important considerations in the trade plan we are formulating." The minister was one of a number of agricultural authorities of other nations who addressed the luncheon, and he spoke very briefly.

FORD'S VIEW ON LIQUOR IN U.S.

Boston, Nov. 14.—The Boston Sunday Advertiser, in a copyrighted story, quoted Henry Ford as saying: "The only people who want liquor in the United States are those who will make money out of it."

Ford, who is here on a brief visit to his famous Wayside Inn in Sudbury, was further quoted by The Advertiser as advocating new issues of Congress-controlled currency to replace that now hoarded, removal of tariff barriers and suggesting the farmer should "devote himself to the production of other things than food, such as oil, and chemicals obtainable from vegetables."

Ss. Baychimo Haunts Captain In England

NEW SHIP SOLD IN AUSTRALIA

London, Nov. 14.—Sale of the Achimota, the motor passenger liner of 9,500 gross tons, built by Harland & Wolff Limited for the African Steam Ship Company, and completed in September, 1931, but never delivered, is now confirmed, purchasers being Huddart, Parker & Co. Limited of Melbourne.

The ship has been sold by Harland & Wolff Limited, the purchase consideration being about two-thirds of the cost to build. It is understood that the transaction is on a cash basis, Harland & Wolff are to carry out certain alterations to enable the ship to comply with the Australian navigation acts, among which is the lengthening of the berths from six feet to six feet three inches.

The memorandum on the position of the African Steam Ship Company as at June 30, 1931, contained in the Royal Mail scheme of arrangements showed that bills given in respect of the Achimota amounted to £277,500, while to complete the vessel there was an additional liability of about £55,000. To obtain the bills for £277,500 and the balance of cost of completion, the company had given an undertaking to mortgage the vessel to the builders on delivery.

Capt. Cornwall, Formerly Her Master, Sees Arctic Ghost Ship in His Retirement

Believes the Ship May Drift Across to Siberia; Would Like to Return to Arctic

London, Nov. 14.—A man who has just had his first glimpse of an English summer for ten years, has his wanderings in Kentish lanes haunted by a ghost ship that rises high and dry on the pack ice of the Arctic.

That ship everyone knows about. She suddenly disappeared in a night twelve months ago, and since has been seen at places hundreds of miles apart. She is the 1800-ton Baychimo of the Hudson's Bay Company, and the man is fifty-two-year-old Capt. S. A. Cornwall, who commanded her in her battles with the ice floes, fetching back from the north pole until the ice which surrounds the North Pole broke up and took her away from him.

TRIES TO FORGET
Captain Cornwall lives now in a villa at Tunbridge Wells, where he tries to forget the beckoning glimmer of the Siberia.

"Four times since we came home by airplane the Baychimo has been seen somewhere on the coast," he said, "but each time beyond reach."

"The ice underneath her must come down at least forty feet, which means she will not ever come again into the shallow waters along the coast."

"The ice may go north with her and join up with the solid pack round the North Pole. It may drift across to the coast of Siberia."

"But it will be years probably before people eventually cease seeing the ship, and by then she will be a real legendary ghost of the Arctic."

WANTS TO RETURN
"I would like to go back to the Arctic again," he added, "and pause. I would like to see her some time, somewhere."

The element of the ship with the ice followed a gale from the south that broke the solid ice into bergs so large that they would last for years.

"We watched her go. We heard of her north of us, and chased her by dog sleighs as she drifted," Captain Cornwall said.

"We followed her for nearly 100 miles across pack ice that threatened to break at any moment. At that time of the year there were only two and a half hours of daylight in every twenty-four."

"Three times in as many weeks we saw her. But we could not get near her. And at last one night she left us altogether."

SHIP'S CREW IS RESCUED
Crew of Dutch Steamer Saved in North Sea After Collision With Greek Ship

Flushing, England, Nov. 14.—The United States ship City of Alton yesterday rescued part of the crew which abandoned the Dutch steamer Rosenberg after it had collided with the Greek ship Mount Helikon in North Sea waters and brought them here.

A few hours later the stricken ship was towed into Flushing Roads and apparently was still afloat.

The Rosenberg survivors were astonished when told their badly damaged ship was still afloat. The City of Alton had picked up the master, chief engineer and several members of the crew before daylight, a few hours after they abandoned the ship as certain to sink.

The Rosenberg, however, was located by the Belgian tug Goliath and the German tug Hero and was towed into Flushing Roads.

The crew reported the collision took place in a dense fog which made it impossible for navigation lights.

ITALIAN LINE AGENT HERE

L. W. Anderson Says Traffic on Atlantic During Winter Should Be Fairly Good

On his first business visit to British Columbia, Inar W. Anderson, assistant manager of the Italian Line, with offices in Montreal, arrived in Victoria this morning from Vancouver. He returned to the mainland this afternoon and will leave for the east tomorrow.

Mr. Anderson spent the morning visiting local transportation men and talking over prospects for the winter season on the Atlantic. He said he thought the season would be fairly good.

Shortly before coming to the Pacific Coast, Mr. Anderson visited New York to participate in the welcoming ceremonies to the new Italian liner Rex. There was a large number of transportation men from eastern Canada at the ceremonies. The Rex is one of the most luxurious ships in the world, Mr. Anderson said.

So far, he has carried large lists of passengers, and on her maiden voyage had almost a capacity list.

The Italian Line will conduct a cruise around the world on the motor-ship Augustus, Mr. Anderson said. The liner will sail from New York early in January. At present it seems there will be a good list of passengers, most of whom will be from the United States. Canadians who are contemplating a trip around the world this winter will be passengers on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain, Mr. Anderson said.

It is difficult to get Canadians to travel on foreign ships when there is a Canadian ship in service, he said.

DEATH CALLS CAPT. YORKE
Pioneer Shipping Man of British Columbia Buried in Vancouver This Morning

Vancouver, Nov. 14.—Capt. Frank M. Yorke, a well-known figure in Vancouver shipping circles and president of F. M. Yorke & Son Limited, city towing agent, died Saturday at the General Hospital after an illness of three months. The deceased, who was aged seventy-three, had resided in Vancouver fifty-three years.

A native of Dublin, the late skipper worked as a stevedore in the early days here. He aided in unloading the first cargo of railroad iron for the C.P.R. by hand, and later supervised loading of many ships at the old Hastings mill. Then, years ago he founded the company which bears his name, and had acted as its head until stricken by illness.

He is survived by one son, Gregory, of this city; three daughters, Miss Constance at home, Angus Drive; Mrs. Lance Black, of Victoria; and Mrs. Vernon Dillier of Burlington, California.

Requiem mass was said for the deceased in the Church of St. Peter and Paul, Thirty-Eighth Avenue and Granville Street, at 10 o'clock this morning. Rev. Father Carey officiated and interment was made in the family plot in Ocean View Burial Park.

HEAVY SEAS DELAY SHIP

Ss. President Jefferson Will Not Dock Here Until About Noon To-morrow

Heavy seas in mid-Pacific, and again 500 miles off the west coast of Vancouver Island, are delaying the inbound American Mail liner President Jefferson and it will be 10 or 11 o'clock tomorrow morning before she reaches the William Head quarantine station, according to word received in Victoria this morning by W. M. Allan, local agent, from Capt. Alvin O. Lustie, master of the ship.

The liner should be alongside the Riethe pier about noon. She is in bound from ports in the Philippine Islands, China and Japan, and from here will proceed to Seattle to terminate her trans-Pacific voyage.

The President Taft, which sailed from here Saturday evening for the Orient, backed out from her dock in Victoria into the teeth of a stiff wind. According to wireless reports received here yesterday she was bucking heavy seas off the West Coast.

The President Jefferson has 350 tons of general cargo for Victoria and several passengers. Most of the cargo is for trans-shipment from here to Vancouver en route to various parts of Canada.

WILD PROPOSAL
Washington, Nov. 14.—The fantastic proposal that "England" should trade the Gulf of St. Lawrence River basin against part of her war debt, and that the United States should "purchase" by this means all the land in Canada south of the St. Lawrence River basin, concluding a St. Lawrence waterway treaty, was made to a senate committee today by Peter G. Ten Eyck, president of the New York State Waterways Association.

Ex-Congressman Ten Eyck's organization opposed to the St. Lawrence seaway project.

Testifying before a senate foreign relations sub-committee, Ten Eyck said the acquisition of such lands would be necessary to ensure the United States the same benefit that Canada would derive from the waterway development.

"This is the sort of a treaty that should be negotiated before the present treaty for developing the St. Lawrence Canal is considered at all," Ten Eyck told the sub-committee.

The international boundary follows the St. Lawrence from Lake Ontario to a point in northern New York. There the river departs from the United States border and flows more than 1,000 miles northward toward the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Atlantic.

GREAT COST
Ten Eyck urged rejection of the waterway treaty, asserting the project would cost $500,000,000, and that "it is apparent that it is more logical to subsidize the farmers and producers of the west than to venture into a hazardous, untried and experimental joint waterway development of this magnitude."

"In any event," he said, "before the United States should invest United States money in the canalization of the St. Lawrence River, it should first place itself in a position to be 50 per cent beneficiary by purchasing all land east and south of the centre line of the St. Lawrence River from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Ocean by treaty."

"This could readily be done without great additional cost to taxpayers by crediting England with the purchase price on her debt."

REPORTS CRITICIZED
Of the various reports of the international joint commissions which investigated the waterway proposal, Ten Eyck said:

"It appears they have not reported on many important features that should be known and to which serious consideration should be given."

He said there had been no mention of maintenance, cost and major repairs, no estimate of the price to be charged for electricity, and no reference "to the hazards of navigating the St. Lawrence which would involve increased insurance rates."

BORAH URGES ARMS CUTS

INCOMPLETE PROPOSAL
Senator Borah's statement follows: "The fact that Great Britain feels unable to pay at this time is of little moment compared with the question of why Great Britain feels unable to pay. What is it that has brought about this condition?"

"Fourteen years have passed since the war closed and such has been the effect of the policies pursued that Great Britain feels she cannot pay her obligations in the small sum of $95,000,000 without impeding the world's economic structure. If this is true, and I am not now questioning the truth of it—it seems to me that a programme to postpone payment without some assurance of a programme which will change the policies heretofore obtaining is an incomplete proposal."

"If the policies which have been pursued since the war are to continue then postponement is another name for cancellation."

NEW ORDER NEEDED
"It seems to me that proposals for postponement and for moratoriums should be accompanied by a programme which will give some assurance that things will be different from this time on."

"The whole question of postponement is the least item in this situation. Postponement will not ruin us."

In charge, and upstairs Mrs. G. W. Brookbank. The table was decorated with red and blue streamers, bowls of chrysanthemums, silver candelabra and candlesticks, with red Mrs. T. Morfitt, Mrs. R. E. Barker, Mrs. J. Mackenzie were in charge of this part of the work, with many assistants.

and help Britain but very little. But the policies which have made postponement necessary will destroy civilization if they are continued.

"It was not merely an incident that on the same day that the press disclosed the fact that 500 farmers were going to Washington to be relieved of their debts. Fundamentally the two propositions are economically akin. The policies which have forced the nations close to bankruptcy are the policies which have forced the people of those nations to bankruptcy."
